Given the sustained demand for student housing and workforce rentals near the University of Florida, this site presents a compelling opportunity for residential, multifamily, or mixed-use development.

This well-positioned parcel offers investors and developers an opportunity to capitalize on the continued expansion of the North Central Florida / Ocala–Gainesville corridor. The region is anchored by the University of Florida, one of the largest universities in the state, and benefits from diverse employment drivers, including education, healthcare, logistics, manufacturing, agriculture, and government. Elevated educational attainment levels and consistent enrollment growth continue to fuel demand for student-oriented housing and workforce residential product, while limited new supply supports strong long-term fundamentals.
