

HISTORY OF CHAMPION MILL

Champion Paper Mill put Hamilton, Ohio on the map in 1893 when Peter G. Thomson opened the first coated paper plant. By 1902, it had expanded into one of the country's most advanced paper mills, helping fuel Hamilton's rise as an industrial powerhouse. For decades, the mill thrived, blending innovation with large-scale production.

Though it eventually closed in the early 2000s, the site has found new life as Spooky Nook Sports Champion Mill—a vibrant complex that honors its legacy while serving the community in bold, new ways.

HEAR FROM OUR SPONSORS!

"At SERVPRO, we believe in more than just restoring homes and businesses -we believe in building strong, resilient communities. That's why we're proud to partner with Spooky Nook Sports Complex, a cornerstone of youth development, health, and teamwork in Hamilton. Together with Spooky Nook, we're proud to support local athletes and events that strengthen our hometown. When we support locally, we all rise."

Patrick Wright - Owner

"G&J Pepsi has been one of Spooky Nook's sponsors since day 1 of their opening here in Hamilton. In that time, Spooky Nook has developed into more of a partnership than a sponsor relationship. The staff at Spooky Nook is always accessible, quick to respond and communicates any activities that impact our partnership. This includes boundless opportunities they provide that helps our business grow with theirs."

Paul Assum - Sr. Market Manager

"Investing in Spooky Nook Sports Champion Mill has been a great decision. The facilities are top-notch, always clean, and the staff's professionalism and need to exceed expectations truly makes them stand out. Their support and well-maintained environment have added tremendous value to our business. We plan on furthering our relationship with the Spooky Nook team."

Joe Saliba - Owner
