Urban Loop

TURNING ACCESS INTO OPPORTUNITY

The Urban Loop is an economic development area that encompasses approximately four-square miles in the City of Urbandale. The Urban Loop’s common, defining element is the six miles of combined Interstates 35 and 80 between Merle Hay Road and Hickman Road in Urbandale. It’s near the center of a fourteen-mile, mid-continent, border-to-border and coast-to-coast combined stretch of those interstates. The Urban Loop is dominated by the ninety-degree turn in the freeway which is its most recognizable feature.

Projects

Since the City of Urbandale launched the Urban Loop development area in late 2017, many businesses have located, relocated, or expanded in the Urban Loop. The Urban Loop is a strategic development area supported by a network of highly accessible, interconnected traffic routes, making Urbandale the center of opportunity for business investment and workforce talent. Are you ready to align yourself with the nation’s most accessible region?

Urban Loop

The land around the interstate is prime for development and supported by highly-accessible traffic routes. Development areas in the Urban Loop offer space for retail, office, flex, warehouse, and light industrial. There are acres of land ready and waiting for a groundbreaking ceremony to inaugurate the next new business in this strategic location. Several new exits have been opened and roadways improved to gain access to a wide variety of sites in the Urban Loop. An interchange at 100th Street was completed in 2018, and an interchange at Meredith Drive and the Iowa Highway 141 flyover ramp were completed in 2020.
