LOCATION OVERVIEW

ALLEGHENY COUNTY | VERSAILLES

Allegheny County is a county in the southwestern part of Pennsylvania (PA). It is the second most populous county in PA following Philadelphia County. Allegheny County was the first in PA to be given a Native American name, being named after the Allegheny River. Allegheny County was created in September of 1788 from parts of Washington and Westmoreland counties and originally extended all the way north to the shores of Lake Erie and became the “Mother County” for most of northwestern PA before the counties current borders were set. The area developed rapidly throughout the 19th century to become the center of steel production in the nation. The county is known for the three major rivers that flow through it, the Allegheny, the Monongahela, and the Ohio Rivers. Allegheny County is home to three National Sports Teams, multiple major top ten companies as well as various colleges and universities. The county consists of 4 cities, 84 boroughs and 42 townships.

Versailles is a borough in Allegheny County, situated along the eastern bank of the Youghiogheny River. Named in honor of France—the United States’ ally during the American Revolution—Versailles originally developed as the small villages of Bissell and Elrod before officially incorporating as a borough in 1894. Versailles is home to the historic Boston Bridge connecting it across the Youghiogheny River, the Versailles Volunteer Fire Company, and offers close proximity to neighboring Mon Valley amenities, including the Great Allegheny Passage trail network and nearby regional parklands.
