PROPERTY OVERVIEW

Originally constructed in 1928 as the “Building & Loan Association,” this iconic two-story brick structure was later home to a T.G.&Y. variety store — a beloved Oklahoma retail brand. Built as a cornerstone of Capitol Hill’s original downtown retail corridor, the property now stands ready for its next transformation. The two-story brick asset has been structurally maintained and thoughtfully upgraded with a new passenger elevator, HVAC systems, 3-phase electric, and extensive plumbing throughout. The layout includes column supported 7,000 SF open ground floor space, a mezzanine overlook, and alley access with a freight elevator shaft in place (retrofit potential).

With timeless materials, solid construction, and urban positioning, this property stands out for owner-users and developers alike in one of Oklahoma City’s most exciting emerging districts. The surrounding investment, walkability, and rich cultural heritage make Capitol Hill a contender for the next frontier in urban growth, ripe for development-minded owners, creatives, and operators to take part in and be at the front door in the renewed interest in the corridor.

PROPERTY HIGHLIGHTS

- Over $1 billion in surrounding investment (appx. 1 mile radius)
- Near transit lines and regional connector corridors

CAPITOL HILL BUILDING & LOAN ASSOCIATION

220 SW 25TH ST, OKLAHOMA CITY, OK 73109

LOCATION DESCRIPTION

Just south of downtown Oklahoma City and Core to Shore Lower Park, Historic Capitol Hill is on the leading edge of OKC's urban design transformation. Once a proud, standalone city (incorporated in 1904), Capitol Hill thrived through the 1950s as a major cultural and commercial district. Now, it's reawakening with purpose—and fast becoming one of the most exciting destinations in the city. Surrounded by major public and private investments, 220 SW 25th sits at the center of a district that's rapidly evolving:

- Wheeler District, just one mile west, is a 150-acre, master-planned urban community that's rewriting what it means to live in OKC. Already home to 240+ homes, a school, 20+ local businesses, and a Ferris wheel park, Wheeler is now doubling its population with a new 199-unit apartment complex, creating demand for local retail, office, wellness, and entertainment just steps from Capitol Hill.

- The $3M Capitol Hill Plaza is currently under construction just a stone's throw from this building, bringing with it lighting, art, trees, and a new outdoor event space that promises to become a district-defining hub.

- Oklahoma River trails, Scissortail Park, and new recreational fields connect the area to Downtown and the Boathouse District.

- Nearby, the Wheeler Ferris Wheel, urban trails, and ongoing rezoning for even more multifamily development are reinforcing Capitol Hill's position as the natural entertainment and cultural companion to the new OKC core.

The surrounding investment, walkability, and rich cultural heritage make Capitol Hill the next frontier in urban growth, ripe for development-minded owners, creatives, and operators to take part in the rebirth.

SITE DESCRIPTION

Iconic brick façade along a revitalized South OKC corridor. Walkable to new plaza, arts venues, local shops, and Wheeler District nearby. Positioned at the cultural heart of Capitol Hill with direct views of downtown OKC.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Zack is a commercial real estate broker and Senior Officer at Banta Property Group, specializing in office, flex, and entertainment assets across the Oklahoma City metro. With half a decade of experience in sales, leasing, and landlord/tenant representation, Zack brings a sharp, solutions-oriented approach to every deal — from customized CRE consulting to hands-on transaction management.

Before entering commercial real estate, Zack spent 12 years in industrial manufacturing in Tacoma, Washington, producing cold-rolled steel products for the mining industry under his uncles tutelage. He later served as deck boss on commercial fishing vessels in Alaska. He also facilitated hospitality operations at some of the most premier venues in the country like the Yellowstone Club. These varied roles shaped Zack's leadership style, resilience, and ability to coordinate complex projects with precision. His ability to comprehend both sides of transactions has resulted in numerous successful deals negotiated on behalf of his clients.

Zack earned a degree in Environmental Studies from Montana State University, where he also played and coached baseball for the Mountain West Conference. He is an active member of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce and Oklahoma Commercial Real Estate Council and was awarded the 2024 Office Sale Transaction of the Year. Originally raised by his grandparents on a small island in the Pacific Northwest, Zack now lives in Oklahoma with his wife, Grace. Together, they are avid snow skiers, love spending time at the lake with their two dogs, and enjoy exploring the world.
