Important Water Quality Information

New York State enacted stringent new regulations for the compound 1,4-dioxane in August, 2020. SCWA sought and received a deferral to the regulations to allow for the time necessary to install new treatment systems to comply with the regulations. The deferral was recently extended until August 2023 by the New York State Department of Health. Information about the deferral and SCWA actions to address 1,4-dioxane can be found at this address: <https://www.scwa.com/emerging-contaminants/>.

When Can I Water My Lawn?

The SCWA recently approved a policy to ensure water conservation. All customers are to water according to an odd/even schedule, based on the number of your home or business. If the number of your home or business is an odd number, such as 101, you water on odd days of the month, 1st, 3rd, 5th, etc. If the number of your home or business is an even number, such as 224, you water on even days of the month, 2nd, 4th, 6th, etc. For more information please visit our Conservation Section at www.scwa.com.
