SURROUNDING TENANTS

CHICO, CA

Chico serves as the commercial and institutional hub of California’s North Valley, anchored by California State University, Chico and Enloe Medical Center. With a metro population exceeding 225,000, the city supports a strong mix of education, healthcare, light industrial, and retail uses – sectors that sustain steady tenant demand and a balanced local economy.

Strategically positioned along Highway 99 and State Route 32, Chico connects regional trade and logistics between Sacramento and Redding, making it a preferred location for service, automotive, and small manufacturing operators.

Its educated workforce, stable housing base, and expanding commercial corridors provide investors with predictable performance and limited competition from new supply.

STABLE REGIONAL ECONOMY

The Chico MSA continues to benefit from population growth following regional migration from Paradise and Oroville, fueling demand for housing, retail, and supporting trades. Ongoing infrastructure improvements and a growing medical and education sector reinforce economic resilience. This combination of regional inflow, balanced industry mix, and high visibility corridors makes Chico an attractive environment for long-term commercial investment and owner-user operations.
