The tract is located on the Watauga/Avery County line. [Just off of Highway NC 194, a State "Scenic Byway" between the Village of Valle Crucis and the Town of Banner Elk.]

There is ample public road frontage, and topography consists of a mix of open field/pasture and hardwood timber growth.

The surrounding area contains ski resorts, a winery, and numerous private, gated mountain development and golfing communities.

Watauga County is the home of Appalachian State University, located in Boone and Avery County is the home of Lees McRae College, located in Banner Elk, less than ten minutes' drive from this property.

The property is ideally suited for luxury home development, but would also make a beautiful homestead, equine facility, or private estate.

While this property is near the town and ski resort of Beech Mountain, as the crow flies, this property is in an isolated section, on a dead-end state road, an area historically comprised of rural family farmsteads.
