The hotel employs a spa reservation team to advise and assist clients with treatment selections.

EXTENDED STAY OPERATIONS

By catering to guests who require longer accommodations, such as business travelers, relocating families, or tourists looking for a more immersive experience, hotels can maintain a steady flow of income with less turnover-related expenses like cleaning and administrative costs.

Extended stays also fill rooms that might otherwise remain vacant, helping to maximize occupancy during off-peak periods.

In Pinedale, this strategy is particularly effective, as the housing market has not caught up with increased demand due to the high cost of living in neighboring cities like Jackson.

By providing affordable, extended-stay options, hotels in Pinedale can attract guests who might otherwise struggle to find suitable housing, capturing a broader market and increasing revenue potential.

MARKET ANALYSIS

Average Daily Rate (ADR) in Wyoming: The 12-month ADR for Wyoming hotels has shown a steady upward trend following the disruptions of 2020.

In the immediate aftermath of the pandemic, ADRs saw a significant rise, peaking in early 2022, driven by a surge in demand and constrained supply.

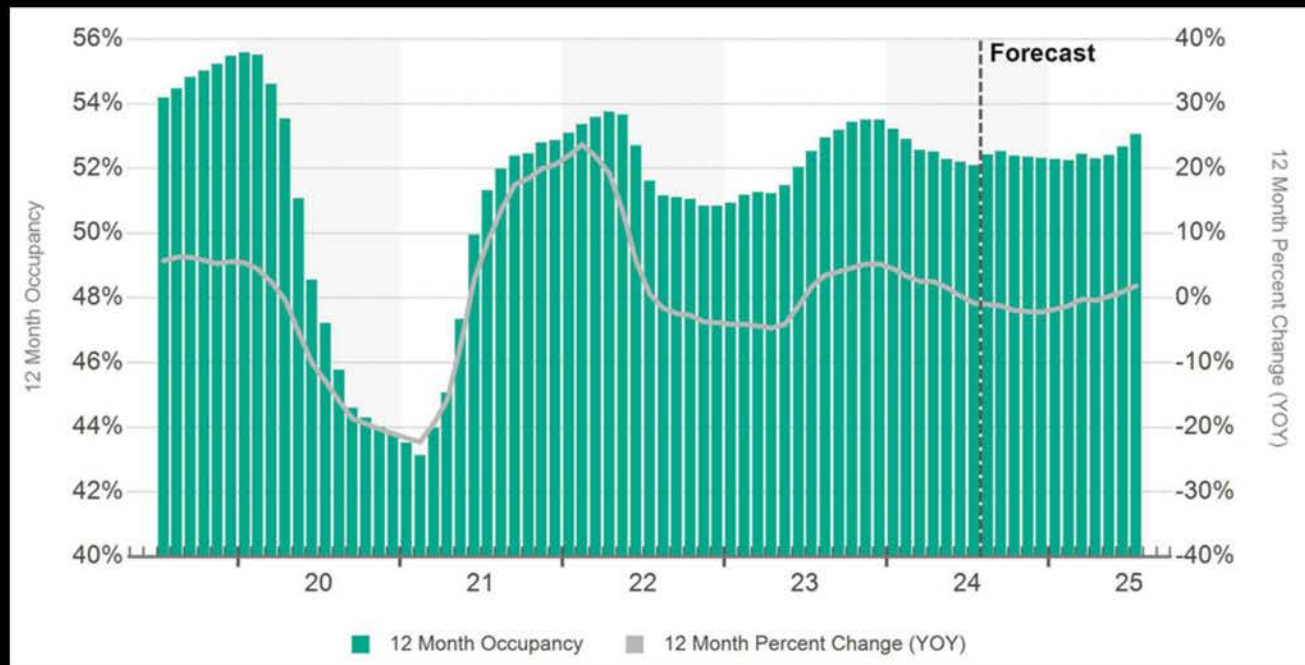

Despite a slight correction later in 2022, ADRs are forecasted to climb again, with steady increases anticipated through 2025. This reflects the ongoing recovery in the hospitality market, as well as Wyoming's growing appeal as a travel destination. The forecast indicates stable and consistent growth in ADR, suggesting robust pricing power in the market moving forward.

MARKET ANALYSIS

Occupancy Trends in Wyoming: Wyoming's hotel occupancy followed a similar pattern to the national trend, with a sharp decline in 2020 as a result of the global pandemic.

However, the recovery has been strong, with occupancy rates climbing steadily through 2021 and into 2022.

A slight dip in 2022 reflects seasonal variations and market adjustments, but the long-term forecast projects continued improvement into 2025. The 12-month occupancy rates are expected to remain healthy, supported by steady demand from both tourists and business travelers. This trend highlights Wyoming's resilience and positive outlook in the hospitality sector, positioning it for continued growth for the future.

MARKET ANALYSIS

This area of Wyoming is a large submarket, and contains around 15,000 rooms spread over 244 properties. That represents roughly half of the Wyoming market's hotel inventory. Like the market, this area is characterized by small hotels and inns. The average hotel has 60 rooms, not far from the market average, but easily below the national norm of about 90 rooms per building.

As of July, 12-month average RevPAR in the Wyoming Area hotel submarket was climbing at an annual rate of 5.7%, essentially in line with the Wyoming average.

There is only one new 39 room hotel project underway in the Wyoming Area submarket. This marks a continuation of new development in the submarket, in which around 81 rooms delivered over the past three years. Those new developments were materially offset, however, by the demolition of a 57-room hotel during the same timeframe.

Just one hospitality trade has closed over the past 12 months. The Wyoming marketing usually sees at least a handful of trades in a given year, meaning that these assets are becoming more attractive as mid to long-term holds.
