Amtrak has over 270 trains that stop at Jack London each week that connect Northern and Southern California.

The San Francisco Bay Ferry is the Bay Area's regional waterways transportation hub. The Jack London Square terminal connects the East Bay with Oracle Park, Downtown San Francisco, Pier 41, Chase Center, Alameda and South San Francisco. The Ferry operates 362 days a year and docks at Jack London Square for commuter traffic, events travel, tourist transportation, and weekend visits to the city.

Jack London Square has the highest sightseeing riders and makes up more than 22% of the San Francisco Bay Ferry passengers.

Over 1,960 Bay Area Rapid Transit weekly trains stop adjacent to Jack London Square at the 12th street station, the busiest station outside of San Francisco.

2,500 parking spaces plus valet services offer ample parking.
