MAJOR AREA ANCHORS

NEW URBANISM

1. Walkability:

Most of our daily needs should be within a 10-minute walk of home and work. Pedestrian friendly street design means buildings are close to tree-lined streets

2. Connectivity:

Interconnected street grid network disperses traffic and makes it easier to walk to your destination. There is a hierarchy of narrow streets, boulevards, and alleys

3. Mixed-Use & Diversity:

Mixed-use is present within neighborhoods, within blocks, and within buildings, leading to diversity

4. Mixed Housing:

Range of housing types, sizes and prices in close proximity to each other

5. Quality Architecture & Urban Design:

An emphasis on human scale architecture and beautiful surroundings creating a sense of place

6. Traditional Neighborhood Structure:

Community design includes a discernable center and edge. Public space is provided at its center, with a high importance on quality public realm, and public open space is designed as civic art

7. Increased Density:

There are more buildings, residences, shops, and services closer together for ease of walking

8. Green Transportation:

Pedestrian-friendly design encourages a greater use of bicycles, rollerblades, scooters, and walking as daily transportation

9. Sustainability:

Minimal environmental impact of development and its operations

10. Quality of Life:

Taken together these principles create a high quality of life, and create places that enrich, uplift, and inspire the human spirit
