FISHERS, IN

- ✓ Real Estate & Development Boom - With 100,000+ residents, Fishers is thriving as developments like CityView reshape the Nickel Plate District.
- ✓ Infrastructure & Connectivity - Investments in walkability, trails, and the expanded Nickel Plate Trail are enhancing downtown access.
- ✓ Entertainment & Quality of Life - From concerts at the Amphitheater to hockey at the new Event Center, Fishers delivers year-round entertainment.
- ✓ Corporate & Retail Expansion - National retailers, restaurants, and offices are rapidly growing along 116th Street, Allisonville Road, and beyond.

Fishers, Indiana has rapidly evolved into one of the Midwest's most dynamic and desirable communities, driven by visionary leadership, strategic investment, and a deep commitment to placemaking. At the heart of this transformation is the Nickel Plate District, the city's walkable, culture-rich downtown that blends urban energy with small-town charm. Anchored by the Nickel Plate District Amphitheater, which hosts major concerts, festivals, and community events, the area has become a central gathering place and a symbol of Fishers' vibrant identity. As Fishers continues its remarkable growth, the Nickel Plate District stands as a model for modern suburban development: connected, curated, and intentionally designed to foster a sense of place.
