PROPERTY OVERVIEW

Aldergrove Town Centre (ATC) is an impeccably planned, eight-building master community, currently under construction in the dynamic core of downtown Aldergrove. This multi-phased development enjoys a prime position near the bustling nexus of 272nd and Fraser Highway, ideally tailored to magnetize both drive-by and foot traffic with its allure. The site boasts unparalleled access from every principal direction through major arterial conduits, including 264th Street and the Trans-Canada Highway. ATC is set to be the celebrated epicenter of downtown Aldergrove, serving as the heartbeat for the current community and a beacon for generations to come. ATC offers a premier setting for an exceptional mix of professional, residential, recreational, and leisure opportunities to enrich your days and evenings. Aldergrove Town Centre is poised to be everything you need and the ultimate destination for your business desires to truly flourish.

HISTORY & DEMOGRAPHICS

Aldergrove, one of the oldest farm communities in the Lower Mainland, traces its roots back to the late 1800s when it was founded at the crossroads of Yale Road and the trail to the United States. Originally named 'Alder Grove' for its abundant alder trees, it became a crucial stop on the Great Northern Railway in Langley. This strategic location for logging company timber camps propelled Aldergrove's commercial growth, shaping its history as a peaceful and friendly community.
