

Union Commons to open this month

L by Staff Report November 15, 2024

Braxton Union. Photo provided | Braxton Brewing

The Union Commons complex—a combination of Braxton Brewing, Graeter’s Ice Cream and Dewey’s Pizza—has an official opening date.

Keep up with the latest NKY news with our daily newsletter

Email Address

Sign up

Per a press release from Braxton Brewing, the complex is set to open on Nov. 27. On that day, the brewery is hosting a grand opening celebration that’s free and open to the public. The event will offer live music, a ceremonial keg tapping, and more. The ceremony will last from 4 p.m. until 11 p.m.

“This is truly a full-circle moment for us,” Braxton Brewing co-founder Jake Rouse said in a press release. “Opening this brewery so close to where we grew up is a testament to our commitment to Northern Kentucky. We couldn’t be more excited to partner with Dewey’s and Graeter’s to create a place where families can come together and build memories so close to where our family did for years.”

Braxton has a deep connection to Union as the brewery was founded there in 2015. The name “Braxton” comes from Braxton Drive, just a few hundred feet from where the Rouse family home in Union. Since then, it has expanded across the Greater Cincinnati region.