AREA OVERVIEW

CHATSWORTH, CA

Beloved for natural escapes where locals ride horseback, Chatsworth is also earning a reputation for some of the most comparably affordable gated communities in the LA area. It's been home to entertainment legends like Frank Sinatra and private school grads such as Scotty Pippen Jr. and Willow Smith. The oldest Protestant church in the San Fernando Valley, built in 1903 and attended by Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, now stands in a private cemetery that holds the final resting place for Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

Chatsworth residents enjoy a blend of seclusion and convenience, close to coffee shops, plazas and State Route 118, known as Ronald Reagan Freeway, while being surrounded by some of the valley's most beautiful vistas.

Chatsworth's protected wilderness and parks highlight dramatic vistas and challenging trails, making the area a popular destination for nature lovers. Stoney Point Park features a blend of rugged terrain — with ancient boulders and steep inclines. The 1,300-acre Chatsworth Nature Preserve is home to more than 200 bird species and a variety of native wildlife.
