PLAYHOUSE SQUARE OVERVIEW

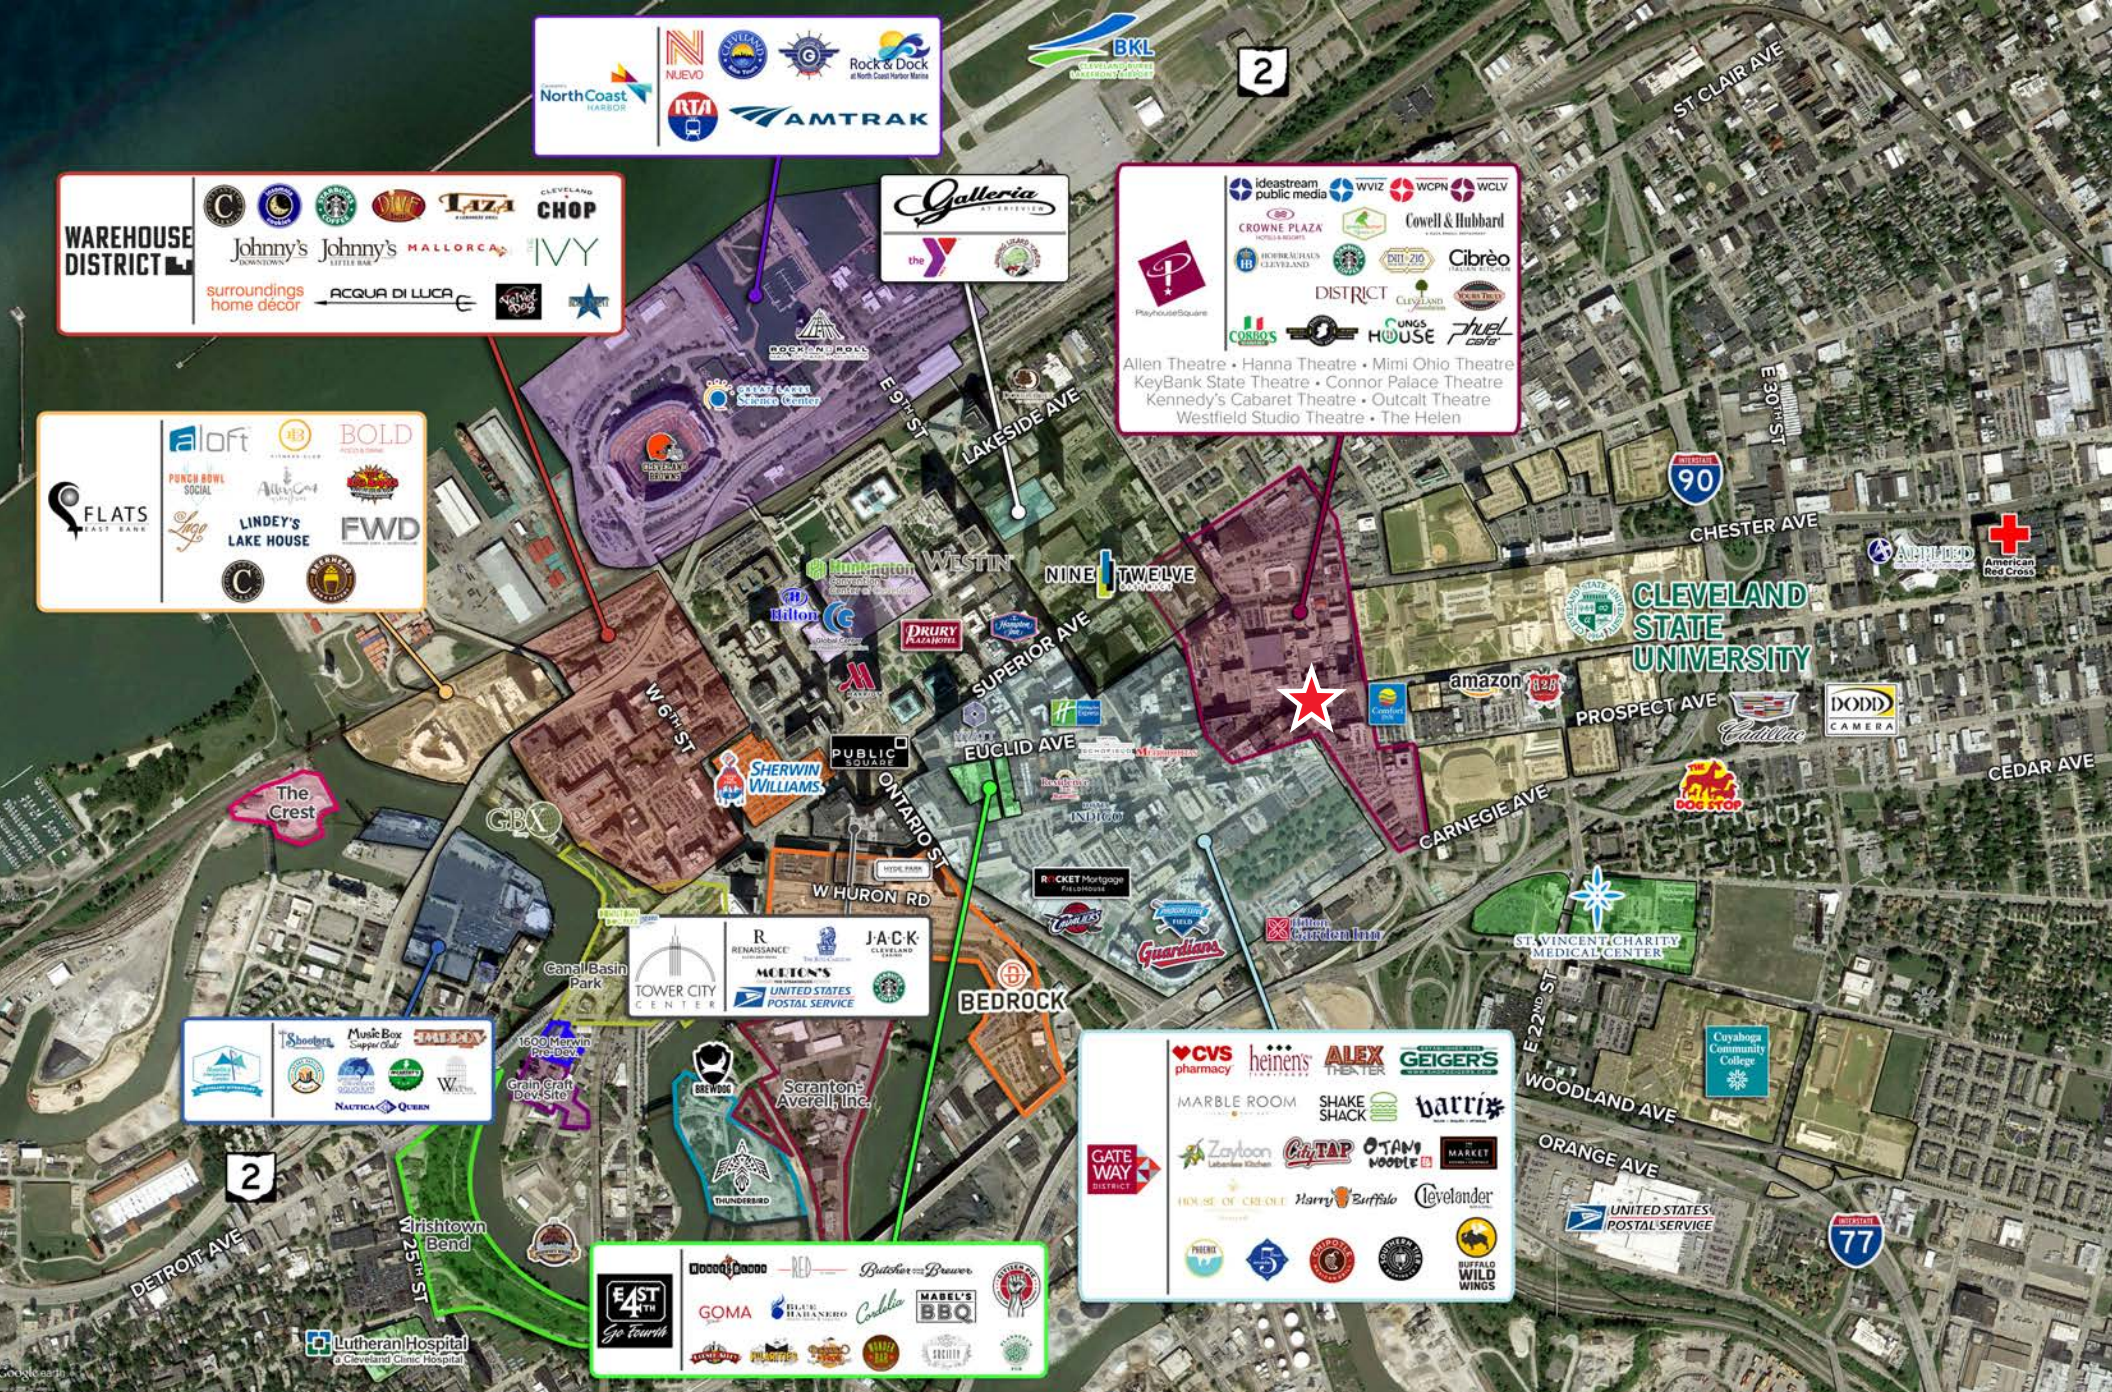

Just steps from Playhouse Square, The Keith Building puts your team in the heart of Cleveland's downtown core, without sacrifices on cost or availability that come with being inside the district itself. Employees gain walkable access to the country's second-largest performing arts center, along with an ever-expanding lineup of restaurants, coffee shops, and after-work spots, all just outside your door.

Office tenants near Playhouse Square benefit from a built-in draw for recruiting and retention. The district's ongoing investment in placemaking, including public art, outdoor seating, and year-round programming, keeps the neighborhood active well beyond the traditional nine-to-five, giving your team reasons to stay downtown before and after work. With RTA rail and bus access nearby and a growing residential population supporting the area's restaurants and retail, the location offers the energy of an entertainment district with the practicality office users are looking for.
