Executive Summary

MoHall Commercial
& Urban Development

Roseland Medical Center is a purpose-built medical and neighborhood retail campus located directly across from Roseland Community Hospital on Chicago's South Side. Constructed in 2007, the property was designed as a long-term healthcare-anchored environment and continues to function as a true one-stop medical destination serving the surrounding community. The campus benefits from strong existing healthcare tenancy, institutional-quality construction, on-site parking, and immediate proximity to a full-service hospital.

Ownership is offering select space for lease at $16.00 PSF NNN, positioning the property competitively within the South Chicago medical office and service retail submarket. The offering is well-suited for medical, dental, behavioral health, outpatient specialty, pharmacy, or complementary service users seeking visibility, access, and adjacency to an established healthcare ecosystem.

Roseland Medical Center functions as an integrated healthcare campus rather than a traditional strip retail center. Approximately 83% of the tenancy base is medical, reinforcing long-term demand drivers that are historically more resilient than conventional retail. The property sits directly across from Roseland Community Hospital, a 134-bed facility with over 500 employees, generating consistent daily foot traffic from patients, staff, and visitors.

The campus benefits from strong urban-infill demographics, excellent regional access via I-57 and I-94, and proximity to major employment and population centers on the South Side of Chicago. The combination of healthcare tenancy, institutional construction, and hospital adjacency creates meaningful barriers to entry for competing developments.

Construction & Building Specifications

The property was constructed with institutional-grade materials consistent with modern medical office standards. The structure features reinforced concrete footings, precast concrete panels, and a brick façade. Interior construction includes suspended acoustical tile ceilings, drywall partitions, and tenant-specific finishes.

The roofing system is a single-ply membrane with an R-38 insulation value and includes a green roof component over the retail building area. HVAC is provided by multiple roof-mounted Carrier units ranging from 3 to 15 tons. Vertical circulation within the medical office building is served by one hydraulic passenger elevator. Flooring varies by tenant build-out, including ceramic and vinyl tile in occupied spaces.

Available Space

The property offers opportunities for users seeking move-in-ready or second-generation medical space within a fully established healthcare environment. The prior offering included a fully built-out second-floor medical clinic totaling approximately 8,240 RSF, designed as a multispecialty clinic with exam rooms, dental infrastructure, and clinical support areas. Existing Tenancy & Campus Synergy

The tenant mix reinforces Roseland Medical Center's role as a community healthcare hub. Major and historical tenants include Fresenius Medical Care, Chicago Family Health Center, Roseland Community Hospital outpatient services, and neighborhood-serving retail such as Subway. Fresenius Medical Care operates under a Certificate of Need issued by the State of Illinois, creating significant regulatory barriers to entry and reinforcing the long-term stability of the location.

Chicago Family Health Center operates as a Federally Qualified Health Center, providing comprehensive care regardless of patient income or insurance status. This concentration of healthcare providers creates natural cross-referrals and consistent daily traffic.

Location & Access

Roseland Medical Center is located approximately 14 miles south of Downtown Chicago and benefits from immediate access to major regional transportation corridors, including I-57 and I-94. The property sits within a dense residential and employment base and is easily accessible via both automobile and public transportation.

The direct adjacency to Roseland Community Hospital materially enhances the site's visibility, credibility, and patient draw. This location dynamic is extremely difficult to replicate and represents one of the property's most durable competitive advantages.

Market Context | 2025

Medical office remains one of the strongest commercial real estate asset classes entering 2025, driven by aging demographics, increased outpatient care delivery, and continued demand for neighborhood-based healthcare access. Purpose-built medical campuses with hospital adjacency continue to outperform generic office product, particularly in urban infill locations where new supply is constrained.

Replacement costs for medical build-outs have increased materially since the property's original construction, further supporting demand for second-generation medical space that can reduce upfront tenant capital expenditures. Asking rents in the mid-teens NNN range remain competitive for South Side Chicago medical and service-oriented locations when combined with parking, visibility, and institutional-quality construction.

Demographics Overview

The surrounding trade area supports sustained demand for healthcare and essential services. Within a five-mile radius, the area contains approximately 196,000 households and a population approaching 500,000 residents, with a strong daytime population base driven by local employment centers. Median household incomes and occupancy levels support neighborhood-serving medical and service uses, consistent with the existing tenant mix.

Conclusion

Roseland Medical Center represents a rare opportunity to lease space within a proven, hospital-adjacent medical campus in a dense urban infill location. The combination of institutional construction, established healthcare tenancy, on-site parking, and competitive $16.00 NNN pricing positions the property favorably for medical and healthcare-adjacent users seeking long-term operational stability.
