HIGHLIGHTS

321 E 2100 S in Salt Lake City is a rare opportunity for a new construction investment. These townhome-style condos offer modern layouts and finishes with four-bedroom floorplans providing higher rental potential than typical three-bedroom products, making them especially competitive for long-term tenants or short-term rental income. At a competitive price point, paired with its desirable size, zoning, and new build quality, this project stands out as a smart investment in one of Salt Lake's most dynamic corridors.

This project is strategically located near Sugar House, one of Salt Lake City's most desirable neighborhoods. The area's median age is in the mid-30s, reflecting a core demographic of professionals and families actively seeking modern housing. Despite strong demand, only ~0.4% of the housing stock has been built since 2020, underscoring the extremely limited supply of new construction in this market.

That imbalance, a youthful, upwardly mobile population and a scarcity of new housing options positions this project with significant upside. Sugar House Townhomes is uniquely placed to capture pent-up demand from buyers and renters looking for updated space near Sugar House's amenities, dining, and transit access.
