THE OPPORTUNITY

49 Orchard Street and 48 Allen Street comprise a rare block-through retail condominium on the Lower East Side — one of the only properties of this scale with simultaneous frontage on both Orchard Street and Allen Street. The two units together offer 1,995 SF of ground-floor retail, with an additional 584 SF of elevator-connected, ADA-compliant cellar space on the Allen Street side.

The property is 100% occupied by New Ealam under two leases expiring simultaneously in May 2027. At the current asking price of $3,000,000, the in-place cap rate is 6.46% — a strong current-income profile for a Manhattan retail condo in a corridor with near-zero vacancy and demonstrably rising rents.

The 2027 lease expiration is the investment thesis. A buyer today secures in-place income at 6.46%, with a clear path to mark-to-market rents or owner-occupancy when both leases roll simultaneously.

Asking Price	$3,000,000
In-Place Cap Rate	6.46%
Annual Income	$249,000

INVESTMENT HIGHLIGHTS

- True block-through frontage — simultaneous street presence on Orchard Street and Allen Street, a configuration rarely available at this scale in Manhattan
- Full condo ownership structure — no ground lease, no co-op approvals, no landlord above you; the asset is fully controlled and freely transferable
- 100% occupied with $249,000 gross annual income; in-place NOI of $193,940 generating a 6.46% return at the $3M ask
- Elevator-connected ADA-compliant cellar on the Allen Street side — 584 SF of below-grade selling or storage space with direct unit access
- Both leases expire May 2027 simultaneously — a clean, defined runway to mark rents to market, reconfigure, or take owner-occupancy without staggered transitions
- In-place rents of $124.81/SF sit below current LES market asking rents of $110–$160/SF, with clear upside at the 2027 rollover
- F, M, J, Z trains within 5-minute walk; Williamsburg Bridge and FDR Drive provide immediate vehicular access
- Surrounded by marquee neighbors: Katz’s Delicatessen, Nine Orchard Hotel, Bode Fine Tailoring, Colbo, Supreme, Tenement Museum, The Ludlow Hotel

CONDO STRUCTURE

Two separately deeded retail condominium units — Lots 1101 and 1102, Block 308. Certificate of Occupancy issued final October 2023. Tax Class M9(4). Ownership will consider selling units individually. No ground lease. No co-op board. No landlord approval required for leasing or transfer. The buyer owns the asset outright and controls its future entirely.

ZONING — C6-2

Permits retail, food & beverage, personal services, and entertainment as-of-right. Use Groups 4 & 6 on the cellar; Use Group 6 at grade. No variance required for standard retail or hospitality uses.

WHY IT MATTERS

Block-through retail condominiums with simultaneous frontage on two active Lower East Side corridors rarely come to market. The combination of full condo ownership, a defined 2027 lease rollover, and an ADA-accessible cellar gives a buyer multiple paths to create value — as an income hold, an owner-user conversion, or a mark-to-market repositioning.

Fire alarm system and sprinkler system throughout. No open or enclosed parking spaces; loading berth data not available. Restrictive declaration: none. Zoning exhibits 2018000255639 and 2018000255640 are referenced on the certificate; no BSA or CPC calendar numbers apply.

RESIDENTIAL CONVERSION CONTEXT

The upper floors were converted to residential use under ZR 15-00 and Multiple Dwelling Law Article 7B, formalized in the same final Certificate of Occupancy that governs the ground-floor and cellar commercial space. The retail condominium units are unaffected by this conversion and carry no shared use restrictions with the residential portion of the building.

Cellar and ground-floor commercial space is classified Use Group 4 & 6 (B occupancy), consistent with retail, food & beverage, and personal service use as-of-right. Upper floors are classified R-2 residential under the Multiple Dwelling Law (HACA), reflecting the building's conversion to residential use under ZR 15-00 and MDL Article 7B (CRFN# 2018000255639, 2018000255640).

WHY THIS MATTERS TO A BUYER

The commercial use classification on the cellar and ground floor is fully separated from the residential floors above, with its own fire protection coverage and a final, unconditioned Certificate of Occupancy. There are no open legal items, restrictive declarations, or pending BSA/CPC actions affecting the retail condominium units.

THE LOWER EAST SIDE RETAIL MARKET

The Lower East Side has undergone a fundamental shift in its commercial identity. What was once a value-leasing market has become one of Manhattan’s most sought-after retail destinations — drawing independent flagships, food and beverage operators, and lifestyle brands that view the neighborhood not as a fallback but as a deliberate statement of where they want to be.

Orchard Street has emerged as the anchor of this transformation. In the past two years alone, Colbo, Bode Fine Tailoring, Assembly New York, Le Père, Kartik Research, and ESSX have all opened here — a signal, not a coincidence. Coverage in the New York Times Style Magazine in June 2025 singled out the corridor as a destination for men’s wear specifically, citing the concentration of independent boutiques now rivaling SoHo and Madison Avenue.

Retail vacancy on prime LES corridors remains extremely tight. Asking rents run $110–$160 per square foot, underpinned by 20,000+ daily pedestrians and average household incomes of approximately $93,000 within one mile of the subject property.

"In recent years, it's also emerged as a shopping district to rival Manhattan's SoHo or Madison Avenue — though with its largely independent boutiques, it's undeniably more charming."

— The New York Times Style Magazine, June 2025

LOCATION ADVANTAGES

MARKET HIGHLIGHTS

HIGH FOOT TRAFFIC & VISIBILITY

Positioned on Orchard Street, one of the Lower East Side's defining retail corridors, the property benefits from steady pedestrian and vehicular traffic driven by nearby cultural destinations and well-known dining establishments.

EXCELLENT TRANSIT CONNECTIVITY

Well-served by multiple subway lines (F, M, J, Z) and bus routes, with proximity to the Williamsburg Bridge and FDR Drive — easy access across Manhattan, Brooklyn, and beyond for both customers and employees.

STRONG DEMOGRAPHICS & AFFLUENT MARKET

The Lower East Side attracts a young, affluent, and diverse population, with average household income of approximately $93,000 within a one-mile radius, supported by ongoing gentrification and a mix of professionals, creatives, and tourists.

STRATEGIC LOCATION, HIGHLY DESIRABLE NEIGHBORHOOD

True block-through frontage on Orchard and Allen Streets places the asset at the center of a corridor supported by nearby cultural destinations and dining establishments that draw both local residents and tourists year-round.
