A PROUD HISTORY...

STEPPING INTO THE FUTURE

Run by generations of the French family Chesterton Mill was used to grind corn into flour for over 100 years. Over time as technology changed the family moved from windmill sails, to steam and then diesel. True to its heritage, today the Mill has evolved once more to provide a new community of commercial workspaces for like-minded, creative and innovative people to work and thrive in. The heritage buildings have been cleverly transformed to create 25 unique, contemporary workspaces, designed to stimulate creativity and productivity.

WELCOME

ANYTHING BUT RUN OF THE MILL

Chesterton Mill is an urban oasis, one mile from Cambridge city centre, where a diverse collection of historic buildings have been re-purposed around the Grade II listed windmill to create a dynamic workplace community unlike any other in Cambridge.

We have purposely designed a unique mix of workspaces, external and internal meeting rooms, social areas and collaborative/learning spaces, which together reflect the culture of today's businesses.

The buildings retain elements of the original frames, beams, flooring and brickwork and the flexible layouts facilitate a wide range of activities, provide comfort, promote wellness and ultimately encourage productivity.
