WELCOME TO MANCHESTER

With its classic New England character and thriving year-round economy, Manchester is the ideal location to operate a business. Manchester businesses represent a wide variety of industries, including but not limited to restaurants, retail, hospitality, finance, technology, and the arts. Medical and dental practices, offices, and schools service the city's year-round community.

Manchester is a premier Southern Vermont destination for locals and tourists alike. The area's tourist population balloons in the summer and winter seasons and contributes significantly to the local and regional economy. Manchester averages hundreds of millions of dollars in gross recepits annually and is the fifth-largest tourist area in Vermont, behind Burlington, South Burlington, Rutland, and Stowe.

BUSINESSES THAT CALL MANCHESTER HOME

In Manchester and Dorset, there are ample commercial spaces to service the towns' residential needs and robust economies. Manchester and the surrounding towns have active real estate markets that attract buyers from across New England and the country. In addition to its commercial opportunities, the area consistenly ranks among the top residential sales areas in the state.

Over the years, several noteworthy businesses have been established and flourished in the Manchester area. The Orvis Flagship Store and corporate headquarters, The Vermont Country Store, The Equinox Resort and Spa, and the Manchester Designer Outlets are all established businesses that are currently headquartered in Manchester.

Manchester is also home to many recognizable national businesses that attract visitors and contribute significantly to the local economy. The Kimpton Taconic Hotel, the Hampton Inn & Suites, TD Bank, Ben & Jerry's, Dunkin', Starbucks, Shaw's, and Walgreens are among several popular chains that serve Manchester's locals and visitors.

IMPACT OF POPULATION AND YEAR-ROUND TOURISM

Manchester boast significant year-round local and tourist economies. Southern Vermont experiences a cyclical pattern of population growth, with the largest influxes occurring during the winter and summer months. Although spring and fall are considered shorter off-seasons, Manchester still attracts a high number of out-of-state visitors in these months.

The population of Manchester consists of 4200 full-time residents. However, a significant number of the area's housing units are second homes. Therefore, this population statistic is an underrepresentation of the total number of people who live in the area depending on the time of year.

EDUCATION Manchester boasts a well-educated workforce and consumer base. More than 60% of residents have attended college, have a bachelor's degree, or have an advanced degree. Local schools offer both public and private education opportunities. The Manchester Elementary Middle School and private Maple Street School serve students in grades K-8.

Burr and Burton Academy, an independent 9-12 school, serves all high-school aged students in the area. BBA is one of Vermont's top-ranked schools for both academics and athletics. In addition to serving local and regional towns, BBA has a competitive admissions program for international students that represent more than a dozen countries.

The Long Trail School is an independent day school in Dorset serving 200 students in grades 6-12. LTS boasts distinguished academic, arts, and athletics programs. It was the first school in Vermont to gain the status of an International Baccalaureate school, and students' test scores are consistently above state and local averages.

The Stratton Mountain School offers a rigorous college preparatory curriculum and a world-class athletics and winter sports program. The SMS alumni network includes 46 Olympians, more than 100 National Team members, and top-ranked professionals in fields including law, business, medicine, and film.

MUNICIPAL SERVICES The size of Manchester's population allows the town to support its own government and municipal services. The Manchester Town Government is divided into several departments that serve the Village and the Center. The Manchester Police Department consists of eight full-time officers, four full-time dispatchers, and a number of part-time officers. Manchester also has its own Fire Department, staffed by 40 committed volunteers.

HEALTHCARE Manchester and the surrounding region have a robust healthcare infrastructure. The Manchester Medical Center is centrally located and staffed with board-certified emergency medicine physicians. The Northshire Rescue Squad is an independent, nonprofit organization that provides 24-hour emergency response and ambulance services. Area hospitals include Rutland Regional Medical Center, Southwestern Vermont Medical Center in Brattleboro, and the Dartmouth-Hitchcock healthcare network based in Hanover, NH that provides medical services throughout Vermont. The Carlos Otis Clinic at Stratton Mountain specializes in urgent care, and the Grace Cottage Hospital in Townshend also provides treatment options.

DINING Manchester is home to a thriving restaurant industry. Manchester and Dorset have a variety of dining options, from fine dining to casual bistros to local breweries and trendy cafes. The surrounding region is rich in agricultural resources, and many Manchester restaurants pride themselves for their committment to using local ingredients and providing a true farm-to-table experience. The area boasts a number of award-winning restaurants. The Silver Fork in Manchester was recently rated by Tripadvisor as the best restaurant in the country for date nights.

HOSPITALITY There is a wide selection of lodging options in the area, including luxury resorts, small bed-and-breakfast inns, and national hotel chains. The Kimpton Taconic Hotel offers guests a boutique hotel experience and has been recognized in the "Top 10 Resort Hotels in the Northeast" and "Top 10 Family Resorts in the U.S." by Travel & Leisure. The Hampton Inn and Suites is conveniently located - just a short walk from shopping and dining in Manchester Center. The Equinox Resort and Spa, first opened in 1853, has long been a Manchester weekend destination. Year-round tourism drives a high demand for seasonal and short-term rental homes, with properties in Manchester and the surrounding towns available to rent.

RECREATION AND TOURISM

Manchester supports a year-round recreation and tourism economy.

WINTER AND SPRING When other parts of the country slow down when the weather turns, Manchester's tourist population booms in the wintertime. Second homeowners flock to the area to ski and snowboard at nearby Stratton Resort, Bromley, and Magic Mountains. Nordic skiing is also a popular winter activity, and the Stratton Viking Nordic Center, Wild Wings Ski Area, and Prospect Mountain are home to miles of pristine trails. The skiing and snowboarding season lasts through mid-spring. Manchester is home to a number of popular gear outfitters for all winter sports needs.

Snowmobilers enjoy Manchester's proximity to the statewide VAST (Vermont Association of Snow Travelers) trail. The shops in Manchester Center are open year-round and offer a welcome respite from the cold. Hildene, the Lincoln Family Estate, offers a variety of winter activities, including snowshoeing, tours of the house and grounds, and live music. Riley Rink in Manchester and Stratton Mountain Resort host ice skating throughout the winter season.

As the weather warms, outdoor dining and hiking return to Manchester and greater Southern Vermont. Spring is also maple sugaring season. Vermont produces 2.2 million gallons of maple syrup annually, more than half of the entire U.S. crop. Dutton Farm Stand, Merck Farm and Forest Center, Smokey House Center, and the Sugar Shack are among the dozens of locations in and around Manchester that offer an inside look at maple syrup production and sell their finished products.

SUMMER During the busy summer season, residents and tourists enjoy hiking, biking, boating on the surrounding lakes and rivers, visiting art galleries and festivals, and shopping at farmers' markets. Manchester's location in the heart of the Green Mountains allows for unparalelled access to some of the finest hiking in New England. The Appalachian and Long Trails intersect at Stratton Mountain, and hikers can reach the trails at several local access points. Other popular hiking trails in the area include the Lye Brook Falls trail, the Dorset Peak trail, and the Stratton Mountain Firetower trail.

Spending time on the water is another popular summer activity. The Dorset Quarry, the oldest commercial marble quarry in the United States, is one of the area's most popular swimming holes. First mined in 1785, stone from the Dorset Quarry was used to construct the main branch of the New York Public Library. Today, visitors from around the country come to the quarry to swim, sunbathe, and enjoy a picnic on the grass.

The Orvis Fly Fishing School offers classes from top-notch instructors. Emerald Lake State Park is a favorite destination of local and visiting families, and features a beach area, snack bar, swimming, fishing, and pedal boat rentals. Several gear outfitters offer tubing, canoeing, and kayaking on the pristine Battenkill River.

Southern Vermont has a vibrant arts and professional performance scene. Arts enthusiasts can catch live performances all summer long at the Weston Playhouse, Dorset Playhouse, Manchester Music Festival, and Southern Vermont Arts Center. Manchester and Dorset are also home to the region's finest art galleries. Farmer's Markets are popular and are held weekly in Manchester. The Vermont Festival, a juried equestrian competition held in Dorset, attracts hundreds of out-of-state visitors to the area for several weeks during July and August.

FALL There's nothing quite like fall foliage in Southern Vermont, and the autumn months bring bustling crowds to Manchester and the surrounding area. The spectacular colors can be attributed to Vermont's abundance of maple trees, which make up nearly 50% of all forest cover in Southern Vermont. The foliage alone draws in thousands of visitors every autumn, and local resorts and businesses offer experiences tailored around foliage viewing. A trip up Mount Equinox Skyline Drive offers an even more spectacular view of Southern Vermont's fall colors.

Equinox Nursery hosts an annual Fall Festival, offering wagon rides, cider donuts, corn mazes, and pumpkin carving. For the beverage enthusiasts, Stratton Mountain Resort hosts the Stratton Brewfest, complete with live music, over Columbus Day weekend. For apple picking, Mad Tom Orchard can't be beat. Farmer's markets, art shows, and hiking extend beyond summer and well into the fall season.

THE ARTS

The sweeping landscapes of Southern Vermont have inspired artists for centuries, and several local galleries embrace the region's artistic tradition.

3 Pears Gallery on the Dorset Green and the Southern Vermont Arts Center in Manchester both host rotating seasonal exhibitions as well as curated permanent collections.

In Manchester Center, Hemholz Fine Art and Tilting at Windmills feature paintings and sculpture from a wide range of artists and artistic styles.

Manchester Hot Glass specializes in handblown glass products and offers glassblowing classes to the general public.

Manchester, Dorset, and the surrounding towns boast a rich and active arts scene that engages locals and visitors throughout the year. Art connects people to their surrounding landscapes and cultivates the unique sense of place that lies at the heart of the Southern Vermont lifestyle.
