Port of San Diego Overview

The Port of San Diego is an indispensable economic engine, adding $9.2 billion to our county's economy in 2019 and employing about one in 30 people in San Diego County. The Port and the approximately 800 businesses on and around San Diego Bay contribute to a dynamic waterfront that reinvest billions of dollars into the local economy each year, creating a more prosperous way of life for all.

The Port cares for 34 miles of waterfront, comprising about 2,400 acres of land and 11,800 acres of water.

The Port champions Maritime, Waterfront Development, Public Safety, Experiences and Environment, all focused on enriching the relationship people and businesses have with our dynamic waterfront. From cargo and cruise terminals to hotels and restaurants, from marinas to museums, from 22 public parks to countless events, the Port contributes to the region's prosperity and remarkable way of life on a daily basis.

Port of San Diego Shipyards The six shipyards of the Working Waterfront along with their suppliers, build, repair and maintain commercial vessels and U.S. Navy vessels, whether homeported here or bound for the far seas.
