DEMOGRAPHICS

BELLINGHAM, WA

As the biggest city in Whatcom County, Bellingham holds the county seat and is a central hub for many local activities and events. Bellingham is located only 55 miles from Vancouver, BC, and 90 miles from Seattle. This close proximity to larger cities helps fuel the economy and has created a close relationship with their Canadian neighbors.

The diverse economy and community offerings make Bellingham both a popular retirement destination as well as a lively college town. A vibrant social scene is reflected in high annual spending on restaurants and entertainment.

Additionally, education is a hallmark of the community, as Bellingham is home to a handful of 4-year and 2-year colleges. This includes Western Washington University, which is the 3rd largest public university in the state and one of Bellingham's top employers.

Bellingham's location also provides easy access to a wealth of outdoor recreation. Nestled right on the bay between Mount Baker and the San Juan Islands, the natural beauty of the area is highly attractive to visitors. As a result, Whatcom County ranks fifth in the state for tourist spending.
