Once the tallest buildings in the state of Louisiana, Hibernia Tower, to this day, stands as one of the city's most iconic landmarks. The property's intricate, breath-taking architecture highlights the historic charm woven throughout the growing metropolitan area.

HISTORICAL PRESTIGE & IMPACT

Located in the heart of the Central Business District (CBD), Hibernia Tower served as the 23-story Hibernia National Bank Headquarters for more than 80 years. After acquiring Hibernia Bank in 2005, Capital One sustained ground-level tenancy at the property for nearly 20 years. In October 2012, construction was finalized and 93% of the building was successfully converted to a 175-unit class A apartment community. In addition to the 134K SF of converted multifamily, the mixed-use asset offers a remaining 43.5K SF of architecturally-rich office/retail space as well as an attached parking garage which was constructed in 2013. Today - a majority of the commercial space is occupied by a mix of professional service offices.

Hibernia Tower's revitalization incentivized neighboring CBD owners, acting as a catalyst for improvements across existing, historic properties as well as the initiation of new hotel, retail, and multifamily investments in the surrounding area.

Since 1921, Hibernia Tower has been a fixture in the New Orleans Skyline. Originally used as a navigational beacon for ships traveling along the Mississippi River, today it serves as a visual reminder of the City's progress. In 2018, ahead of Hibernia Tower's 100th anniversary, the cupola underwent a $1 Million Dollar restoration.

Hibernia Tower is situated at the heart of Downtown's Central Business District (CBD) a highly desirable live-work-play location with impressive resident demographics. The centralized location provides unbeatable walkability to a diverse range of retail/ restaurant offerings, entertainment destinations, greenspace/public park and white collar employment opportunities. NOLA's robust public transit system, rooted in Downtown, amplifies connectivity across the region.

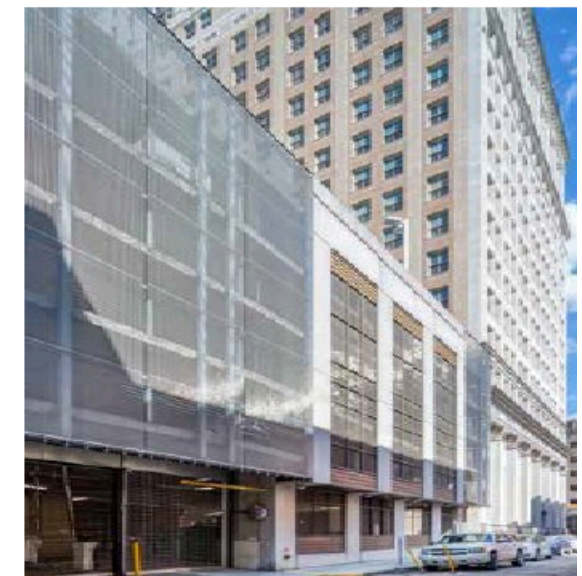

NEW ORLEANS SINGLE-FAMILY HOUSING MARKET

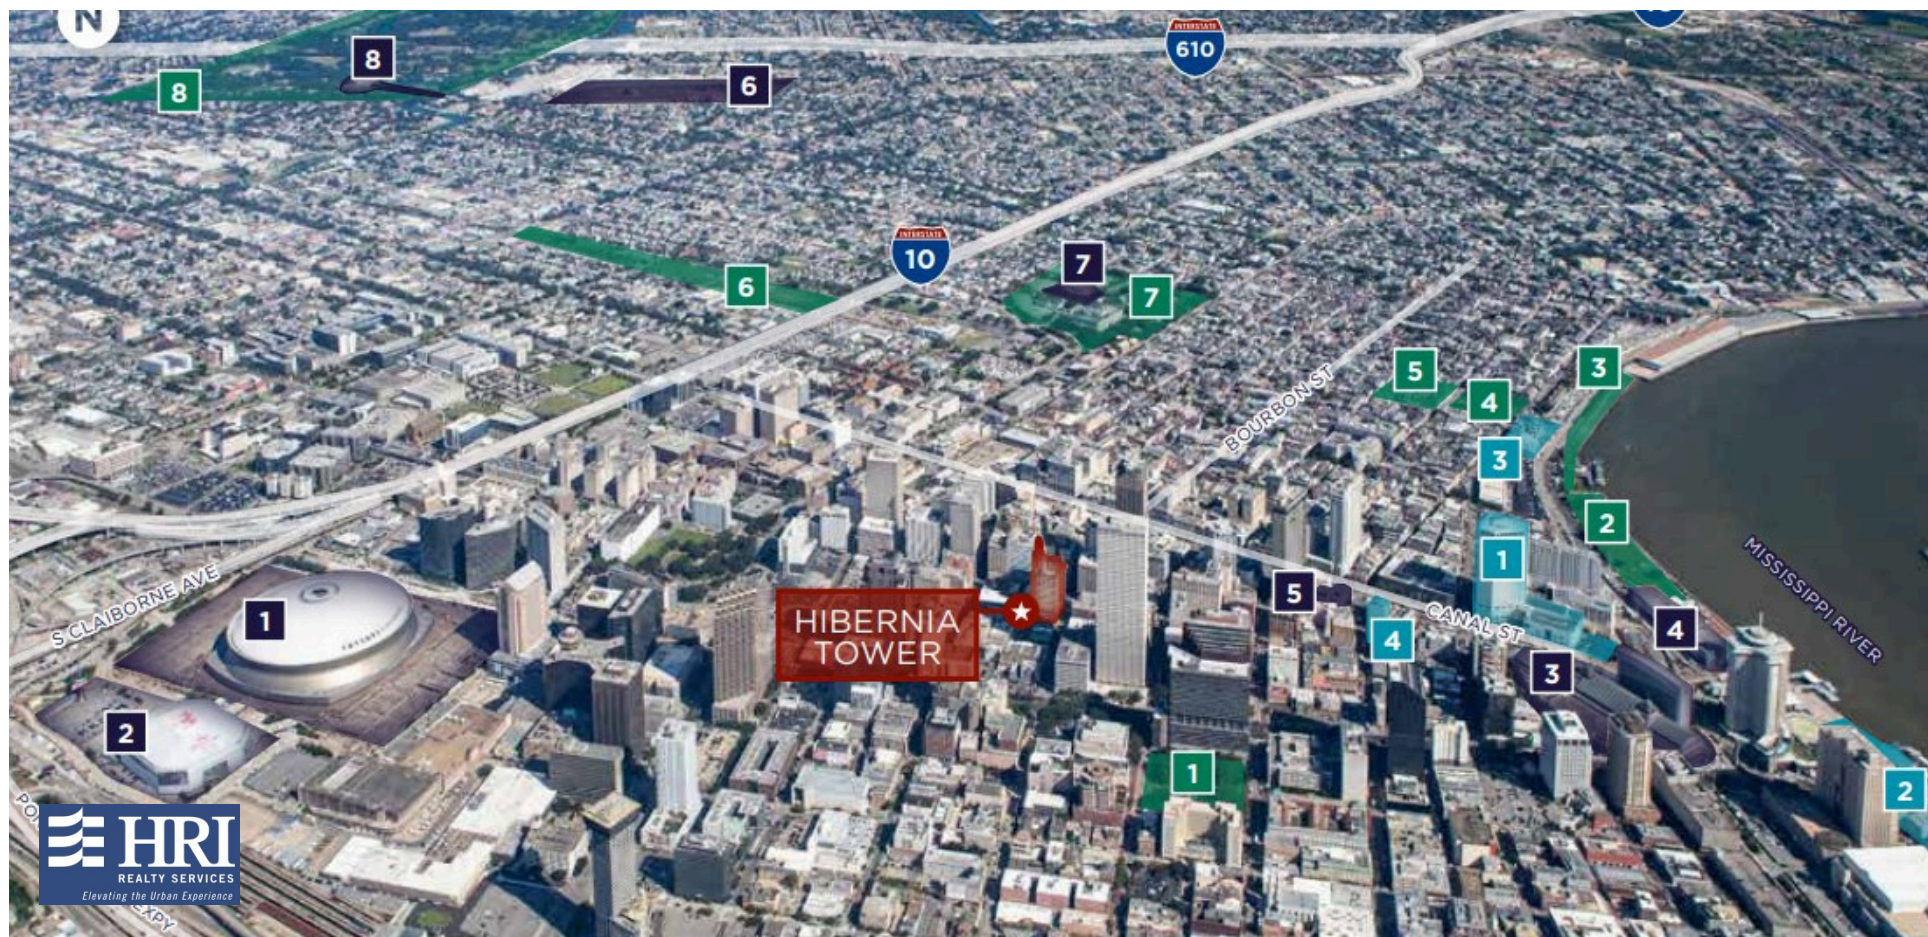

In the last 24 months, roughly 450 homes sold for $500K+ within a 5-mile radius of Hibernia Tower. Home to NOLA's industrial skyline, the CBD holds a highly limited traditional single-family housing supply.

With a composition of high-value, historic residences, juxtaposed with new, top-of-the-line builds, home ownership in the overarching Downtown district is unattainable for a large proportion of residents, creating strong demand from a dense, highly-qualified renter pool.

Now with a 50% larger footprint, Children's Hospital is better able to serve New Orleans and the state at large.

NEW ORLEANS RIVERFRONT DISTRICT

Plans for a new $1B riverfront entertainment district were announced in March 2021. The 2.4M SF entertainment venue will be located along the riverfront next to the New Orleans Convention Center. Construction began in 2022 and will be complete by 2026. The project is estimated to provide 9,000 construction jobs and 5,900 permanent jobs once fully developed.

Economic Hub for the Gulf Coast

Nestled along the Mississippi River with direct access to the Gulf, New Orleans operates one of the busiest cargo ports in North America. Its location along the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico has played a prime role in New Orleans' cultural and economic history, which is heavily rooted in maritime and port-related industries.

Positioned on Lake Pontchartrain 70 miles southeast of Baton Rouge, New Orleans holds a prominent position for offshore oil and gas, transportation, shipping, tourism and hospitality. New Orleans, which fronts a bend in the Mississippi River, is world-renowned for its historic French Quarter entertainment district, grand Garden District residences and annual Mardi Gras festival. The Crescent City is home to major hospitals and universities, as well as numerous oil, natural gas and petrochemical companies.

PORT OF NEW ORLEANS: AN ECONOMIC ANCHOR

Connected by a 14.5K-mile inland waterway system and the interstate highway system, the Port of New Orleans (Port NOLA) has long been the most desirable port for moving cargo through the Midwest.

Port NOLA offers the only deepwater port in the country and is served by six Class 1 railroads, providing port users direct and economical rail service to or from anywhere in the country. The Port NOLA is one of the fastest-growing container ports in the United States. Nationwide, the Port supports more than 119K jobs and generates an economic impact of almost $29B+. Port-related industries support one in five jobs in Louisiana.

LOUISIANA INTERNATIONAL TERMINAL (LIT)

In the last 10 years, shipping traffic in the U.S. has amplified. The Louisiana International Terminal (LIT), set to begin construction in 2025, will help meet these growing needs, enabling Port NOLA to serve vessels of all sizes, a capability that is currently limited, and to remain competitive on the international trade scale.

The $1.8B container terminal project will establish a maritime gateway to the Gulf Coast, creating new, high-paying jobs, increasing industrial revenue and generating significantly higher state tax revenue. The container terminal is set to open in 2028 with one ship berth (worth) and is set to allow 180K - 280K containers annually. The remaining terminals will open in phases over time.

Tourism is the single largest provider of jobs in New Orleans. In a normal year, the local leisure and hospitality industry is responsible for over $9B in economic impact, or over 12% of New Orleans' GDP. Known for jazz music, Creole cuisine and an eclectic mix of cultures, New Orleans is like no other city. According to WalletHub, New Orleans has more festivals, museums, music venues and nightlife options per capita than any other U.S. city.

MARDI GRAS

Mardi Gras is the city's most notable festival. The two week period is all about daily parades, music, costumes and entertainment. Economic impact reports estimate that Mardi Gras generates more than $1B in annual spending.

MUSEUMS & ATTRACTIONS

New Orleans is also home to numerous museums and attractions, including the National WWII Museum, Louisiana

SUPERBOWL LIX: CAESARS SUPERDOME

The New Orleans Saints (NFL) are an integral part of the culture and economy of the city, which hosted the Super Bowl for the 11th time in 2025.

When the Caesars Superdome (formerly Mercedes-Benz) hosts an event it may generate more than $480M in economic impact, a few blocks away. The city of New Orleans allocated $560M for a large-scale renovation of the Superdome as well as infrastructure support and a renewal of its lease.
