Location

Merced is a city situated in the San Joaquin Valley of California, serving as the county seat of Merced County. With a population of approximately 85,000 residents, Merced is a vibrant and diverse community in the heart of California's agricultural region. It's known for its unique blend of small-town charm and access to essential urban amenities.

Merced is strategically located in Central California, making it a hub for various nearby cities and attractions. It is approximately 110 miles southeast of San Francisco, 130 miles north of Fresno, 65 miles west of Yosemite National Park, and 270 miles north of Los Angeles, making it a convenient stop for travelers and nature enthusiasts.

Merced boasts a diverse economy with several key industries contributing to its prosperity. Manufacturing, agriculture, education, and healthcare are among the prominent sectors in the city. The presence of the University of California, Merced, has further enhanced the city's educational and research offerings, attracting students and professionals from all over.
