What's your first impression?

This charming bed and breakfast oozes old-school charm. Austin-based interior designer Shannon Eddings brought this Greek Revival back to life, and the much-buzzed-about beach beauty reopened in July 2018.

Who's checking in here?

Explorers ready to soak up everything they can about the property's history.

Is there a particular room you recommend?

The Preacher Suite—named (duh) for a preacher and his wife who once lived in the mansion and hosted church services for locals—features a king-size bed, a beautiful clawfoot tub, and dreamy bay windows.

What little details really made your stay special?

Complimentary breakfast and happy hour; individually decorated suites and rooms; and golf carts, bikes, and carriage rides to explore the island.

Anything else we should know?

No kids, no pets, no smoking.

What's the bottom line?

This is a dreamy option for B&B lovers. Book before every design enthusiast in Texas beats you to it—Instagram is sure to make this place supremely popular.
