Our History

A lifelong resident of Hazleton, George Joseph Hayden graduated from Pennsylvania State University in 1960 with a degree in Electrical Technology. His early employment with Atlas Chemical Industries and Barrett Haentjens & Co. provided the skills necessary to set the course for his future plans.

In 1975, while working as a Plant Engineer for Barrett Haentjens & Co., George began his electrical business in his home with a small crew of electricians and with his wife, Florence, who managed the financial records and frequently made breakfast for the crew. Reinvesting all the profits into his new venture to purchase tools and equipment and hire more employees, he worked diligently to realize his dream of starting his own electrical business.

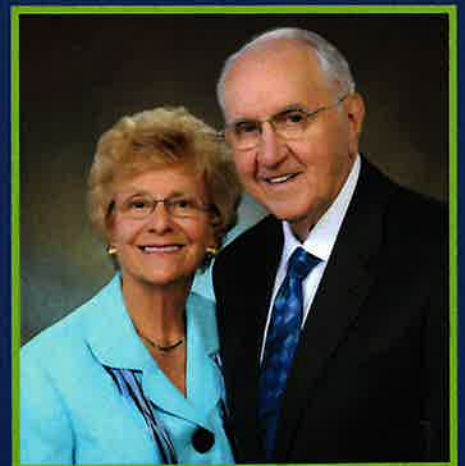

The passion for the electrical trade continued with the next generation. Following in the footsteps of his father, George Francis Hayden (Junior) graduated from Penn State in 1983 with an associate's degree in Electrical Engineering having worked since the age of 12 in the family electrical business.

In 1989, George Jr. left his job as an electrical engineer technician at Carpenter Technology, a stainless steel mill in Reading, to work side by side with his father. During the years in the business, George F. earned a PA state-approved certificate of industrial electrician apprenticeship training, and received his journeyman and master electrical license in PA and other states.

In 2009, George and Florence Hayden sold the business to George, Jr. and his wife, Karen.

In 2017, Usbaldo (Baldo) Trevino, a 30 year employee of Hayden Power Group, became George Jr.'s business partner and company vice president.

Under George & Baldo's leadership, and with a team of more than 100 employees, Hayden Power Group will celebrate 50 years in business in 2025, and continues to be synonymous with high-quality electrical construction, a safety-first philosophy, and first-class customer service.
