CLEVELAND MASONIC AUDITORIUM

3615 Euclid Avenue | Cleveland, OH

Property Overview

3615 Euclid Avenue, is a 220,000-square-foot commercial and retail complex in Downtown Cleveland, located just east of Playhouse Square and near the Cleveland State University campus.

Completed in 1921, the Romanesque Revival building features an L-shaped plan, block massing, and minimal window openings suited to its original auditorium and Masonic lodge uses.

Its exterior is clad in orange-red brick with a sandstone façade added in 1948, while the interior includes the 1918 Auditorium, 1920 Grand Foyer, and the historic lodge and tower rooms.

With significant capital improvements completed between 2018 and 2024, the property offers strong potential for continued entertainment use or redevelopment into luxury residential, hospitality or mixed-use space.

Capital Improvement Summary

The Masonic Cleveland Auditorium underwent extensive upgrades across the main theater, box office, stage, restrooms, corridors, lower lobby, exterior façade, and Grand Foyer. Theater renovations included ceiling plaster restoration, new carpet, wood refinishing, and reupholstering 1,682 seats, along with comprehensive MEP improvements, LED lighting, updated door hardware, and general paint and tile repairs.

Several internal Tower Rooms were removed to create space for expanded entertainment and food and beverage uses. A new Daikin HVAC system—featuring seven RTUs, split units, new air handlers, and a DOAS—now provides full building climate control, managed through a web based system for flexible, remote operation.

The building also received a modernized electrical system with a new FirstEnergy feed, transformer, and full distribution upgrade, as well as life safety enhancements including new egress doors, fire escape repairs, standpipe recertification, and lighting improvements. Exterior work included new storefront doors, egress lighting, brick replacement, and mortar tuckpointing to maintain the historic façade.

A new TPO Roof with a 20-year warranty was installed, and the parking lot was resurfaced (92 spaces) to better accommodate tour buses and customer vehicles.
