The B.4-8 zoning historically regulated industrial uses like manufacturing, storage and truck operations with specific restrictions on outdoor storage and building heights. As part of Guelph's broader effort to align zoning with its Official Plan and Provincial policies, a comprehensive review began in 2019. This led to the approval of a new Zoning Bylaw in April 2023, which came into effect February 2024, ensuring zoning designations reflect modern development practices and provincial guidelines.
