Hoover has emerged as a major cluster for information technology companies in Alabama. Four out of the top five software development companies in the Birmingham-Hoover Region call the city home.

The 35242 Zip Code of Hoover along the Highway 280 Corridor is the top zip code for tech workers to live in the region.

Our city is also home to the federally funded National Computer Forensics Institute—the nation's leading training center for cyber and electronic crime forensics.

A cutting edge high school cyber academy at RC3 is providing a pipeline for future workers and Jefferson State Community College has a reinvigorated I.T. fast track program.

Hoover is the second largest city in the 1.1-million person Birmingham-Hoover Metro Area. In just over 50 years, Hoover has become the sixth largest city in Alabama with over 92,000 persons and it continues to grow.

Today some of Hoover's largest employers are homegrown innovation success stories such as McLeod Software, BioHorizons, and BioCryst.

Hoover is home to a variety of companies that have technology and science at the core of their operations. Large companies such as Regions Bank, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Alabama, and AT&T have major facilities in the city.
