DEMOGRAPHICS AND ECONOMY

There are 23,651 people and 9,664 households residing in the city. * According to the United States Census Bureau, the city has a total area of 29.6 square miles (77 km2), of that, 29.6 square miles (77 km2) of it is land and 0.1 square miles (0.26 km2) of it (0.27%) is water. The city lies within the Eastern Interconnection rather than the Texas Interconnection making it part of only 15% of the state to lie outside of that power grid.

Marshall's economy is diversified and includes services such as Insurance claims processing at Health Care Service Corporation, also known as BlueCross BlueShield of Texas, education at several institutes of higher learning, manufacturing such as wood kitchen cabinets at Republic Industries and pottery at several manufacturers. Tourism is also an important industry with about one million tourists visiting the city each year. Marshall is home to two major colleges - East Texas Baptist University (ETBU) and Wiley College.
