ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION AND COMPARATIVE EVALUATION:

The former Police Station is one of three distinctive public buildings in Penacook Village erected in the late 19th century. Its Romanesque stylistic characteristics are evident in the arched entrance and adjacent window (which cleverly reveals the interior stair railing). Other noteworthy features include granite lintels, sills, arches, and name plate; corbeled and paneled chimney; decorative brickwork near the top of the walls and a row of corbels at the eaves. Window openings are paired and share lintels and sills.

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND and role in Town's/City's development:

Other small buildings stood on the site of the Police Station since Penacook's earliest years, but at the end of the 19th century the site stood vacant. At that time, it was determined that the existing police station in Penacook was in such unsanitary condition that it was detrimental to the health of anyone confined there. In 1899, it was recommended that a new station be built and this was carried out in the following year.

The second floor served as a meeting hall for the Grand Army Republic and the city provided the hall free of expense to the Post and Relief Corps.

By the 1950's, the police department used only the basement of the building and the first floor stood vacant. Soon the Penacook branch of the Concord Public Library moved in and remains there today. The police department and Grand Army Republic used the building on a smaller scale into the late 1970's. Though the actual use has changed this building continues to fill a public need in Penacook.

DISCLOSURES & CONDITIONS

- The sale includes both 3 Merrimack Street and the lot on Sanders Street. The property is being sold subject to historical preservation requirements (in a form and manner to be determined by the City of Concord) relative to a prohibition on the building being demolished (except in the case of emergency), and retention of the building's historic façade. In addition, a restrictive covenant will be prepared requiring the parcel at 3 Merrimack Street to be a property tax generating use or will otherwise be required to establish a Payment in Lieu of Taxes (PILOT) for any use that is not subject to property taxation.
- The sale is subject to the approval of the City of Concord's City Council.
