

506-508 N Clark

Erected in 1880 by Jonathan H.P. Dodge 506 N Clark was originally conceived as a combination retail and apartment building. The high quality of the building's design—including its finely detailed sandstone façade—was indicative of the increased acceptance of apartments as first-class accommodations in the early 1880s.

