INTERO COMMERCIAL COMPANY OVERVIEW

Intero was founded in 2002 in Cupertino. Given its location in Silicon Valley, one of its core strategies has always been the implementation of advanced technology and cutting-edge services and marketing. Over the last 18 years it has grown tremendously, and currently possesses the largest market share of any brokerage in Silicon Valley for many years running. Its commercial division is a juggernaut in its own right, and is the recipient of multiple Costar Power Broker awards, which are very prestigious and only awarded to the 5 highest producing firms in a given market.

In 2014 Warren Buffett took notice of the company's outsized access and its position as a dominant market player, and Interco was acquired by Berkshire Hathaway. This acquisition has been a dream relationship for our team, as it has given us a robust platform and a deep network of contacts, technology, and resources to better serve our clients. Being associated with one of the largest and most credible brands in the world ensures Interco Commercial will remain a dominant market player for years to come.
