CITY INFORMATION

COLDWATER, MICHIGAN

Coldwater, Michigan, is a vibrant community located in Branch County in southern Michigan, serving as the county seat and positioned near the crossroads of I-69 and U.S.-12. The city covers roughly 10 square miles and is defined by its blend of historic charm and natural beauty, with the Coldwater River and a chain of connected lakes bordering its western side, offering plenty of outdoor recreation such as boating, fishing, and camping. Downtown Coldwater retains its 19th-century character, featuring historic districts lined with Italianate, Victorian, and Colonial Revival architecture, along with cultural landmarks like the Tibbits Opera House—one of Michigan's oldest theaters—and the Little River Railroad with its heritage steam train rides. Coldwater is also known for its strong sense of community, hosting annual events like the Ice Festival, Strawberry Fest, and Apple Fest. In recent years, the area has experienced economic growth, supported by major employers and a welcoming small-town atmosphere that makes Coldwater both a destination for visitors and a comfortable place to live.
