America's Fastest-Growing Metros for Jobs in 2025

BY TERESA METTELA

Midsize cities are stealing the spotlight as job markets heat up, professional networks expand, and newcomers fuel growth. These cities aren't the typical large urban centers, but vibrant hubs with growing professional communities and strong momentum.

LinkedIn released a new survey that focused on metros with fewer than 2.5 million LinkedIn members, measuring year-over-year growth in hiring and job postings. This list highlights places where opportunity is on the rise and local job markets are thriving. These emerging metros are becoming key players in the nation's evolving labor landscape.

Pensacola, FL

- June median list price: $370,001
- Median household income: $72,161

The COVID-19 pandemic ignited fresh energy in Pensacola's housing market, and the city is riding that wave to become a vibrant Gulf Coast hub. Job seekers, homebuyers, and high-tech manufacturers are flocking here, drawn by the blend of economic opportunity and a laid-back lifestyle just steps from the beach.

With major employers like Navy Federal Credit Union, the U.S. Navy, and the University of West Florida, hiring is booming in health care, professional services, and government administration.

Chipotle, Culver's and First Watch to open at Ransley Station in Northwest Pensacola

By Edward Bunch III

Three new restaurants — Chipotle, Culver's and First Watch — are planned for the Ransley Station development in Northwest Pensacola and should open in early 2026.

Ransley Station is an ongoing multi-use plaza project that will include apartment complexes, restaurants, retail, medical services and a hotel.

A representative of Chipotle Mexican Grill told the News Journal they're expecting to open their Ransley Station store at 8870 Boesch Lane in early 2026. First Watch said their new location at 8860 Boesch Lane is slated to open in the middle of 2026.

Brandon Cherry, owner of the Pace and Pensacola Culver's locations, said they're breaking ground on the 4,985-square-foot Ransley Station restaurant in early November and expect to open in either late April or early May.

Escambia County approved plans to build the 2,325-square-foot Chipotle restaurant at Ransley Station with in July, then approved projects to build a Culver's and a First Watch the following month.

The Ransley Station location will be the fourth Chipotle in Escambia County.

Sarasota-based chain First Watch will open a 3,900-square-foot First Watch restaurant at 8860 Boesch Lane, neighboring the Chipotle inside Ransley Station.

This location will be the third First Watch restaurant in the Pensacola area and the project is spearheaded by Catalyst Healthcare Real Estate, which was also approved in July to build a primary care office at Ransley Station in partnership with Baptist Healthcare.
