Rare 1-Acre Urban Assemblage

This four-lot, ~1-acre site on S La Brea & E 99th St is a rare large-scale opportunity in Inglewood's urban core. Its size and frontage offer a prime canvas for a landmark redevelopment opportunity or multifamily project. The site supports high-density development with ground-floor retail — aligning with the city's smart growth vision. In a market where parcels of this scale are nearly impossible to find, this assemblage offers exceptional potential for both impact and long-term value.

Strategic Location & Exceptional Connectivity

Just off Century Boulevard, a key corridor linking LAX and Inglewood's entertainment district, the site offers prime visibility and access to freeways, transit, and regional hubs. Located near the new Metro K Line station, it supports transit-oriented development and enhances appeal for residents and retailers alike. High traffic counts and a central urban location make it ideal for redevelopment opportunity projects with ground-floor retail. Additionally, these properties are all located within a federally designated Opportunity Zone, which may offer preferential tax treatment for new investments. This is a highly connected, rapidly evolving area — offering both local convenience and broad regional reach.

High-Density Potential with Supportive City Policies

The property is ideal for a high-density multifamily or redevelopment opportunity project, potentially rising 4+ stories with ground-floor retail. Inglewood's newly adopted inclusionary zoning ordinance supports this kind of smart growth, encouraging density while requiring a portion of affordable units. Developers may also benefit from incentives like density bonuses, enhancing project feasibility. The city's proactive stance signals a clear openness to transformative developments that add housing and align with modern planning goals. All key elements — zoning, incentives, and community support — are in place to move forward with a flagship project.

Unmatched Investment Opportunity in a Transforming Market

Inglewood is experiencing a once-in-a-generation development boom, fueled by billions in public and private investment, including the $5+ billion Hollywood Park redevelopment, new hotels, retail, and transit upgrades. This momentum has created a prime environment for housing and redevelopment opportunity projects, with soaring demand and strong investor confidence. At approximately one acre, this investment offers a standout opportunity to develop at volume and secure a foothold in one of LA County's most dynamic markets.
