THE BUILDING

Recognized as one of California's premier wine tasting destinations, the Old Sugar Mill attracts many of the state's top winery tenants, creating a curated, high-quality environment that draws consistent visitor traffic from across the region. Surrounded by scenic vineyards, open Delta farmland, and riverfront views, the property offers a stunning backdrop that enhances brand image and guest experience. Just minutes from Sacramento, the location combines tranquil wine country ambiance with convenient metropolitan accessibility, making it an exceptional opportunity for wineries seeking visibility, prestige, and an unforgettable setting for tastings and events.

THE AREA

The Old Sugar Mill is a landmark destination in the heart of the Clarksburg wine region, offering a distinctive setting for commercial and hospitality-oriented uses. Celebrated for its historic character and adaptive reuse design, the property has become a premier wine tasting destination within the Northern California area. Surrounded by expansive vineyards and Delta farmland, it features outstanding panoramic views and a tranquil rural atmosphere that attracts steady tourism and repeat visitors. Home to multiple boutique wineries and tasting rooms, the site functions as a built-in destination that encourages extended visits and cross-traffic, generating consistent foot traffic for complementary uses such as events, specialty retail, food service, and hospitality, all supported by its strong regional identity and enduring market appeal.

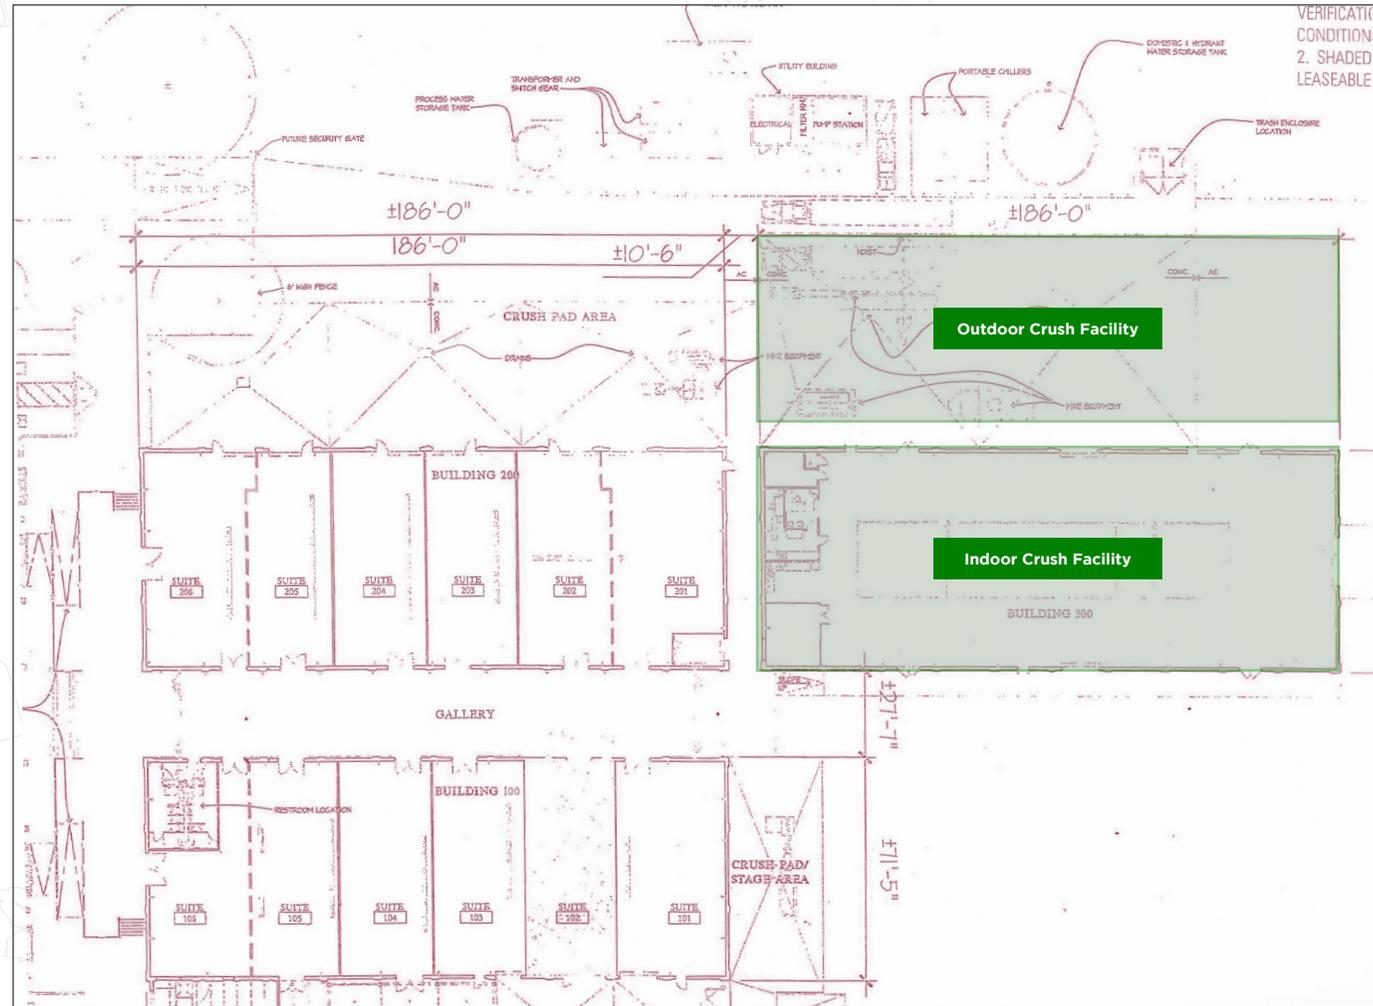

Nestled in the heart of Clarksburg, California, the Old Sugar Mill stands as a striking symbol of the town's agricultural roots and charm. Built in 1934 as a bustling beet sugar refinery serving the fertile fields of the Sacramento River Delta, the massive brick structure once echoed with the rhythm of industry before eventually falling silent as the sugar era came to an end. Rather than fading into history, the building was thoughtfully reimagined and transformed into a home putting boutique wineries on display, preserving its industrial character while giving it vibrant new life. Today, its historic architecture, and vineyard surroundings create a warm, inviting atmosphere where visitors can sip locally crafted wines, and experience a seamless blend of Clarksburg's past and present.
