INDUSTRIAL PARK

Masterplan

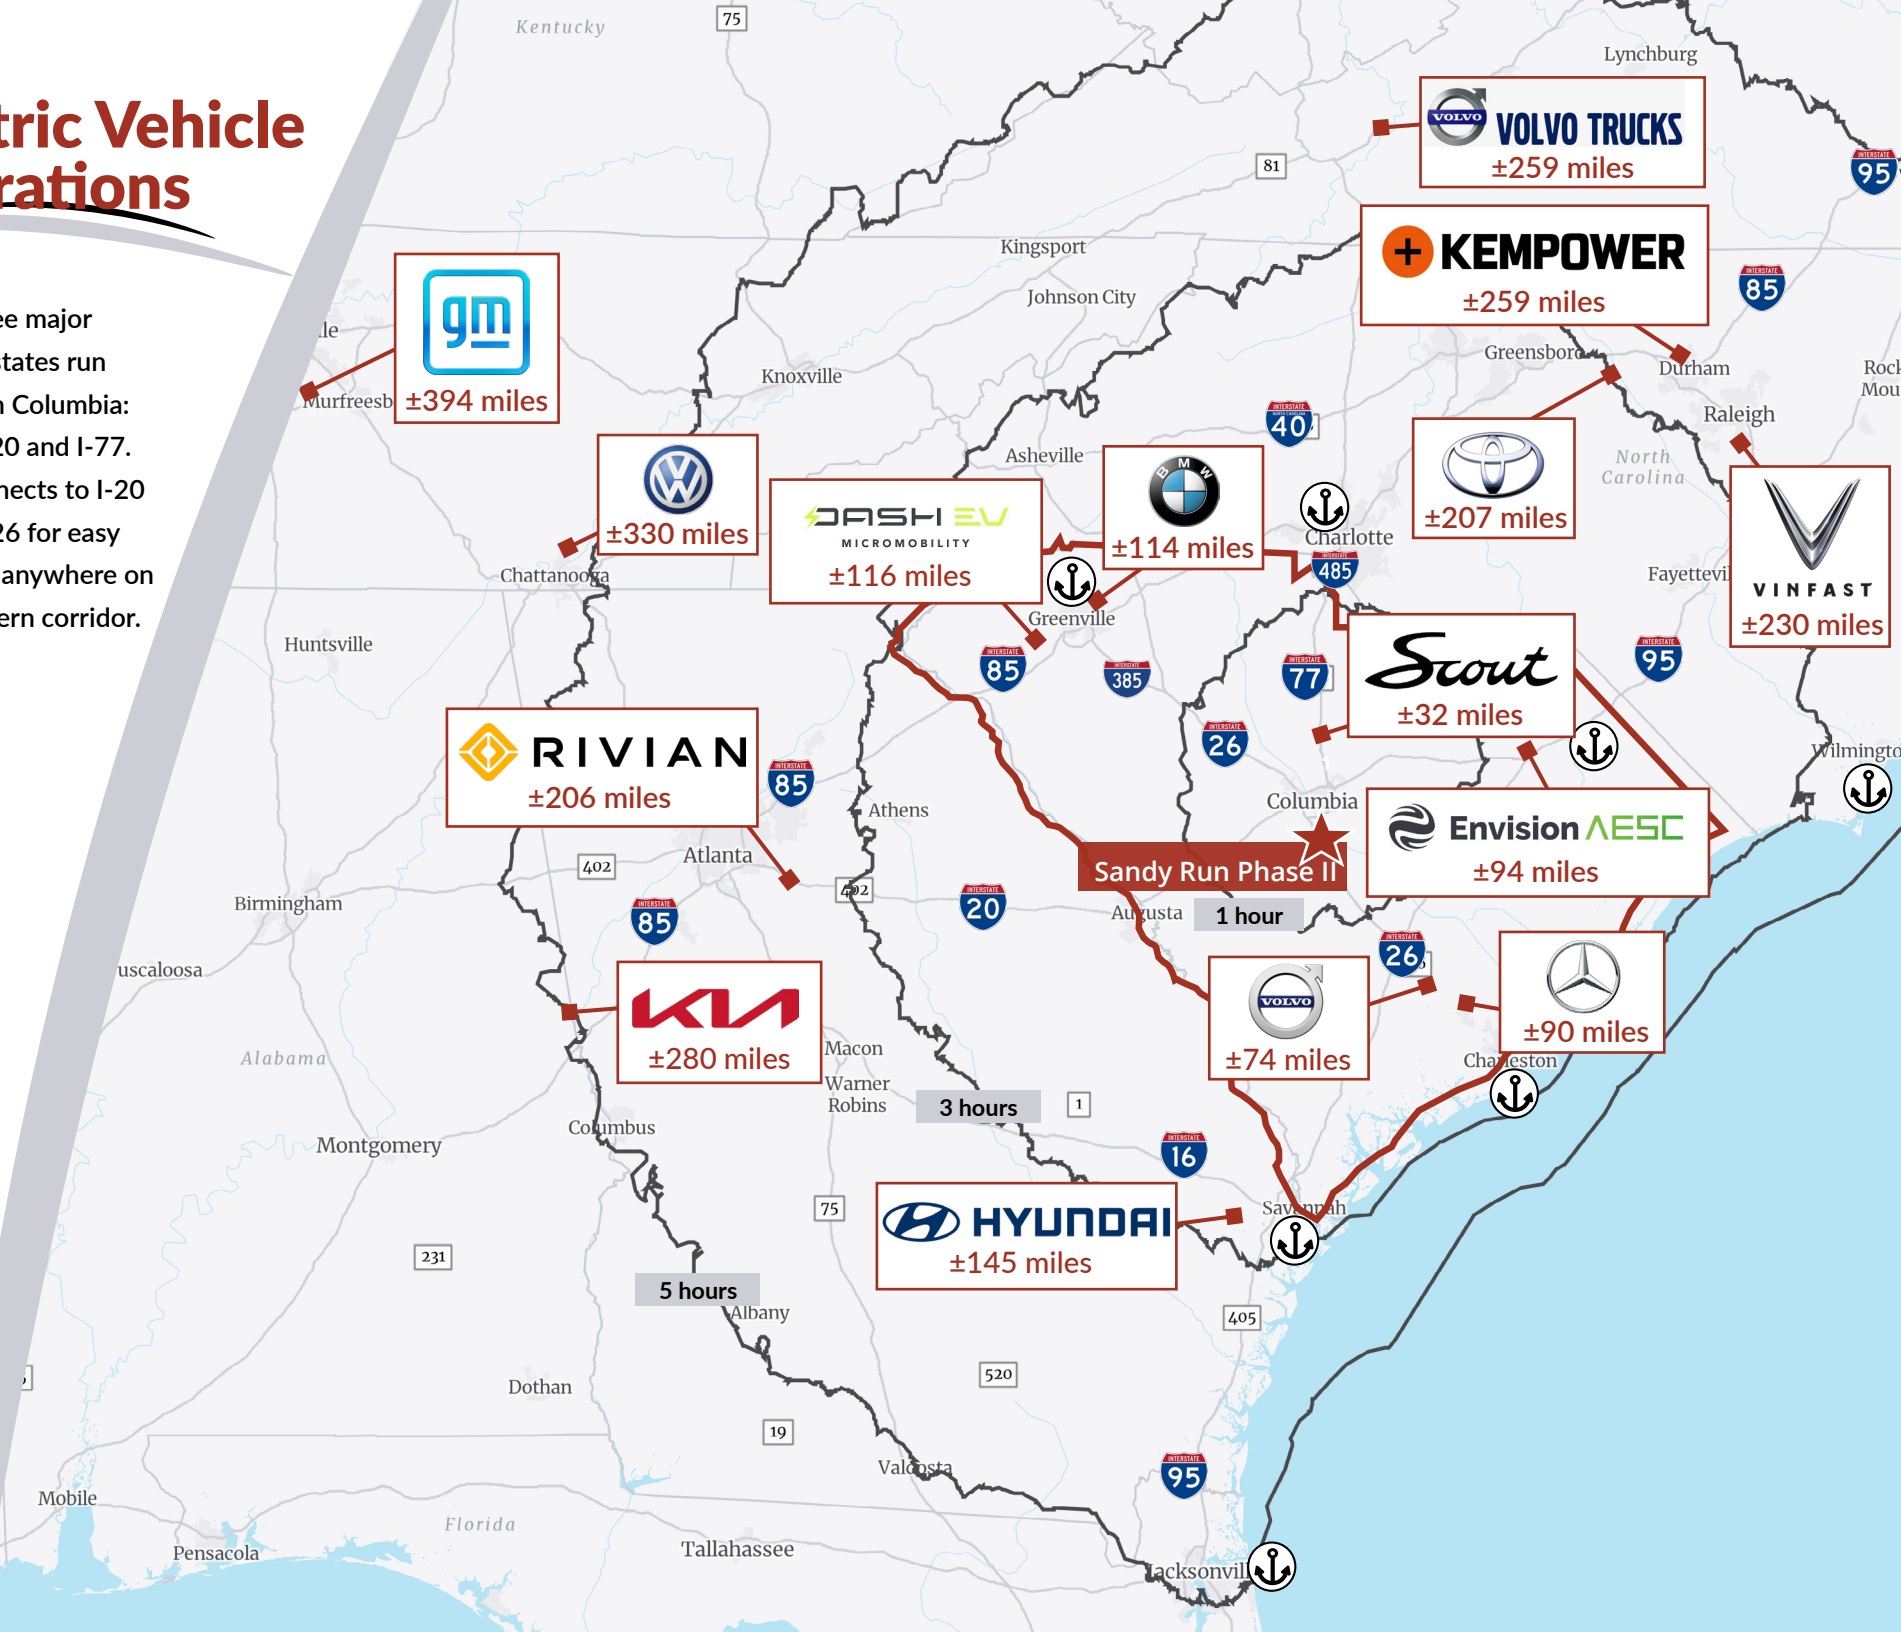

About the Park

Sandy Run Industrial Park is located in the counties of Lexington and Calhoun, which have seen continuous growth in their industrial markets. Sandy Run is a ±760.9-acre, fully entitled industrial park with access to all utilities.

The park features direct access from Highway 21 on Interstate 26 (Exit 119) and is located near the Amazon Distribution Center, Nephron Pharmaceuticals and the Columbia Metropolitan Airport. The park is strategically positioned close to I-77 and I-20, allowing for a quick and efficient distribution process for a multitude of manufacturing purposes.

Electric Vehicle Operations

Three major interstates run through Columbia: I-26, I-20 and I-77. I-95 connects to I-20 and I-26 for easy access to anywhere on the Eastern corridor.

Market Facts

Industrial Highlights: Columbia, SC

Columbia's ease of accessibility is a primary factor in site selection for both businesses and residents and many are drawn to Columbia due to its convenient location. The Columbia, SC Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) is made up of six counties centrally located in South Carolina, halfway between the Port of Charleston and South Carolina Inland Port in the Greenville-Spartanburg market. In addition, major interstates run through the Columbia region, allowing short drive-time access to Charlotte, NC; Atlanta, GA; and Charleston and Greenville, SC, among others. The region's airport, Columbia Metropolitan Airport (CAE), sees more than 1.3 million passengers per year, processes more than 500 million pounds of air cargo and is home to a UPS regional air hub with direct access to the UPS Louisville Worldport.

Additionally, several airports are within a two-hour drive time, including Charlotte Douglas International Airport (CLT), Charleston International Airport (CHS), Greenville-Spartanburg International Airport (GSP) and Augusta Regional Airport (AGS).

Columbia is also positively affected by the robust statewide import/export business throughout the state; the region is seeing more new companies land in Columbia who are directly supporting the booming automotive industry for success in electric vehicle (EV) production. Scout Motors, coming soon ±30 miles from the site, is leading the charge for EV manufacturers and suppliers in Columbia. Also, South Carolina imports are setting records annually. The Port of Charleston is moving more cargo boxes through the port than ever before with a TEU volume increase of 1.5% over 2021 with nearly 2.8 million units moved in 2022. The Port of Charleston is now the deepest port on the East Coast. The Inland Ports in Greer and Dillon also add to the connectivity of the state by providing a direct route via a Norfolk Southern rail line to the Port of Charleston reporting 167,147 shipments in 2022; this will continue to enable more companies throughout the Southeast to quickly move goods to and from the ports via rail. The ports continue to grow with no signs of slowing down, and Columbia is directly benefiting from the record-breaking successes giving companies direct access to global markets.
