INWOOD

Inwood offers a unique opportunity for businesses looking to establish themselves in a neighborhood experiencing significant growth and investment. Located at Manhattan's northern tip, the area maintains a strong local character while benefiting from the Inwood Rezoning Plan, which is bringing new residential and commercial development to the area. The neighborhood features excellent access to green space with both Inwood Hill Park and Isham Park nearby, providing residents with recreational areas that draw visitors throughout the week. The diverse local population supports a variety of businesses, from service-oriented establishments to dining destinations.

For retailers looking to secure a presence in an evolving Manhattan neighborhood before prices rise further, 5055 Broadway presents an opportunity to be part of Inwood's continuing transformation.

HEALTHCARE HUB

NewYork-Presbyterian Allen Hospital, a 199-bed full-service community hospital located just 0.4 miles away, serves as a major institutional anchor for the neighborhood. This facility employs hundreds of medical professionals and staff, bringing a steady stream of healthcare workers, patients, and visitors to the area daily. The hospital specializes in geriatric medicine, heart failure, diabetes management, and minimally invasive surgery, and is affiliated with Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. This 24/7 operation generates consistent foot traffic and represents a reliable customer base for nearby retail establishments.
