OFFICE SPACE - MIXED USE PROJECT

109 South Warren Street, Syracuse, New York 13202

Overview

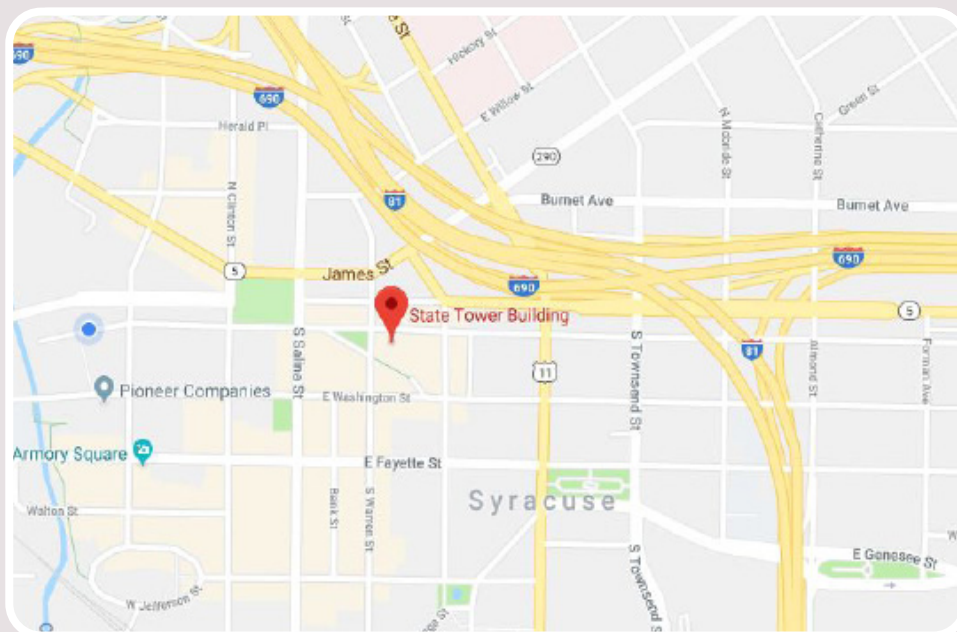

Built in 1927, the 200,000 square foot State Tower still has the distinction of being the tallest building in Central New York. Pioneer Companies has just completed a 42 million dollar restoration of the building, bringing it back to its original glory. The mixed use building includes fully renovated and meticulously maintained first floor retail space, six floors of newly renovated Class A office space, and fourteen floors consisting of 61 unique luxury apartments. Abundant natural light supplied by new operable windows and smaller floor plates creates a one-of-a-kind environment for every type of business. Available suites can be built to suit from 551 square feet to 9,309 square feet.
