

This is an aerial photograph of a medical center and its surrounding area. The top half of the image shows the Novant Health New Hanover Regional Medical Center, which includes several large buildings, parking lots filled with cars, and a circular driveway. The bottom half of the image shows a residential neighborhood with individual lots outlined in yellow. A specific lot, located south of the medical center and west of a curved road, is highlighted with a red border. This lot is situated near a street intersection and contains some trees and a small structure.
