Liberty City

Liberty City is one of the most culturally rich parts of Miami, and a place that tourists are unlikely to visit.. for now.

The neighborhood carries a story as real and honest as american history itself. Rooted in a sense of family and community, but carrying the weight of racial connotation, inherently giving it a rich sense of culture, vibrance, and a search for liberty and expression.

Legend says Martin Luther King recited an early version of his speech "I Have a Dream" at the historic Hampton House. The Hampton House Motel was an oasis for African-American leaders, activists, performers, and professional athletes, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Sammy Davis Jr., Duke Ellington, Nancy Wilson, Louis Armstrong, Jim Brown, Malcolm X, and Muhammad Ali.

Once described as the "Jewel of Black Miami," the Hampton House Motel was a unique and important site. The Hampton House was among the most modern and upscale facilities available to Blacks in Miami before desegregation. And in an era when hospitals, schools, and beaches were segregated, the Hampton House was open to people of all races. Furthermore, it was a center of local and national political, civic, and cultural activity. One only needs to speak to people who visited the hotel during its years of operation to understand how much the swirl at the Hampton House captured and inspired imaginations.

Whereas Overtown was the entertainment district in the Jim Crow Era, Liberty City was the gathering point for civil rights minds of the time.

Few places around the nation carry the cultural significance of Liberty City, making this area ripe for a revitalization driven by its local culture and history.

BIOPHILIC 'HOUSE'

YAKOL Capital, in collaboration with renowned Japanese architect Shigeru Ban, is planning an "attainable" condominium development in Miami-Dade County. The project, called House, will feature 320 residential units priced at approximately $1,100 per square foot, with entry-level homes starting in the low $300,000s.

Construction is expected to begin in 2026. The development will offer a potential pathway to U.S. residency for investors through the EB-5 visa program. Designed with a strong focus on sustainability and wellness, House will incorporate biophilic architecture—an approach that fosters a deeper connection between residents and the natural environment.

YAKOL Capital describes the design as one that enhances quality of life by integrating nature into everyday living. An image shared by the developer showcases the lush, nature-forward vision behind the project.

The 1.16-acre development site, located at 237 N.E. 54th Street, Miami, FL 33137, was acquired in 2023 for $6.57 million by Toussaint Ateliers Residences. According to APEX Capital Realty, the site—currently occupied by a 1965-built low-rise multifamily property—is situated in a Qualified Opportunity Zone and carries a T5-O zoning designation.

House is just one of several projects in YAKOL Capital's growing South Florida portfolio. The developer is also advancing a major mixed-use development spanning 700,000 square feet, which will include residential units and ground-floor retail. That project is being designed in partnership with acclaimed Dutch architecture firm MVRDV.
