About North Plains, Oregon

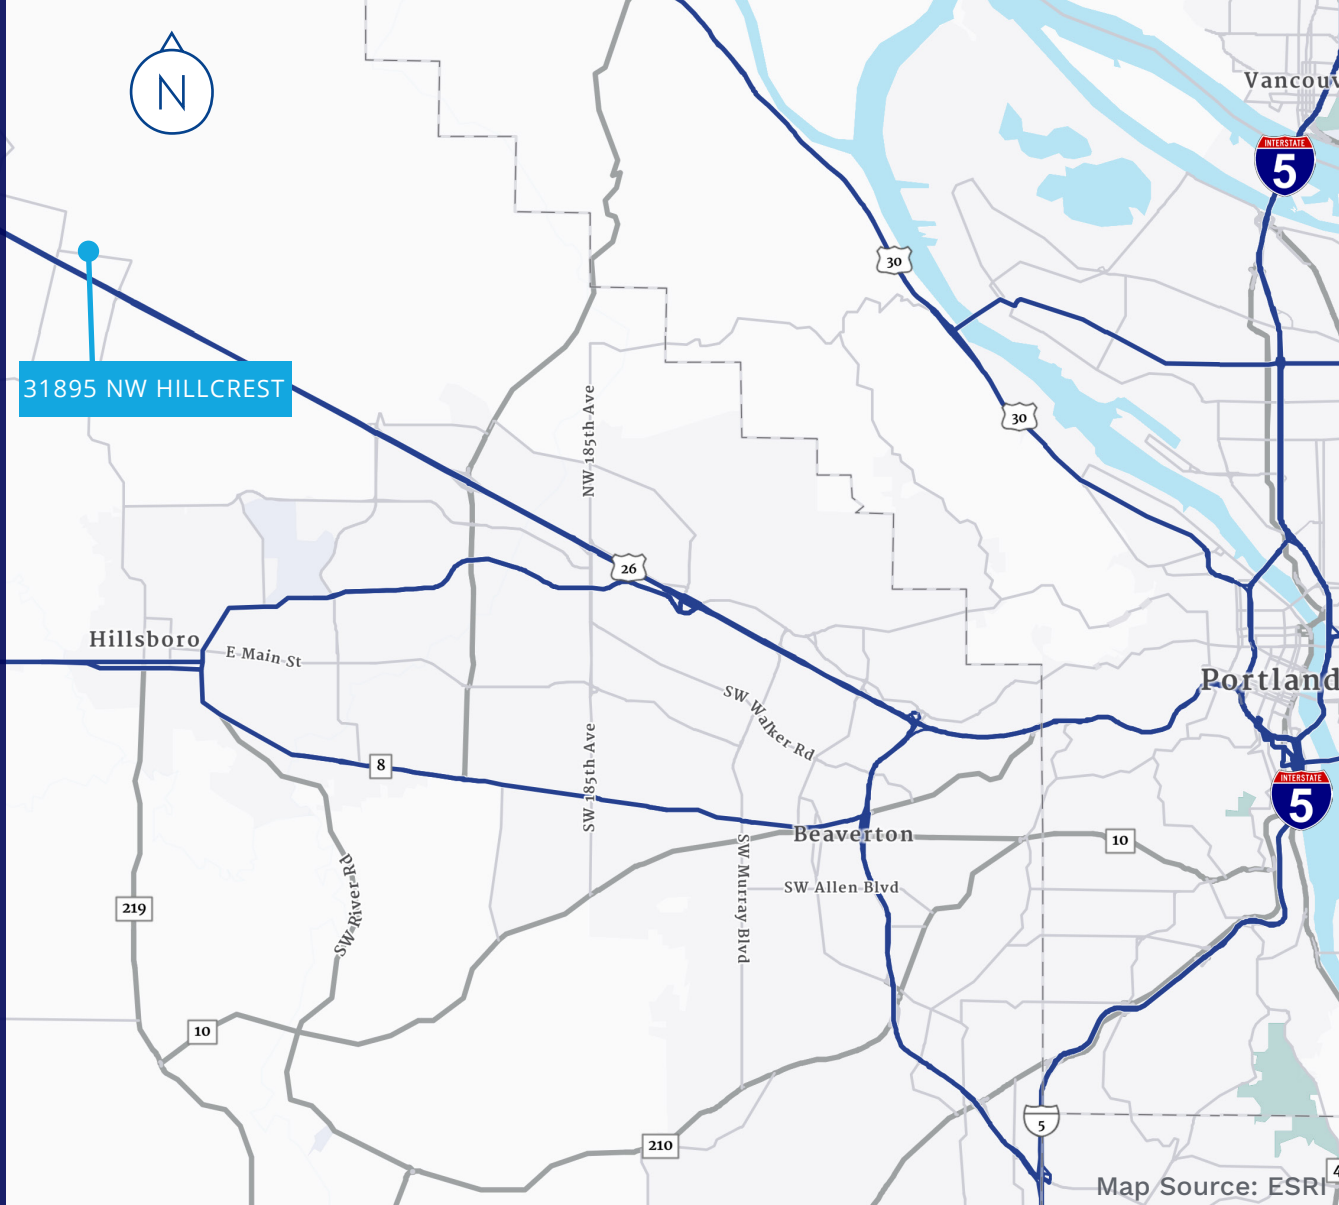

North Plains, Oregon, located just west of Portland, is emerging as a dynamic business hub on the edge of the state's "Silicon Forest," just minutes from Intel's Hillsboro campus and 17 miles west of downtown Portland. The city's business sector is diverse, with strong representation in manufacturing, professional and technical services, and healthcare and social assistance.

North Plains is also home to a growing number of small businesses across sectors like retail, construction, and hospitality. The city's proximity to high-tech corridors has positioned it to benefit from regional economic trends, particularly in the semiconductor industry. North Plains was recently designated as Oregon's first semiconductor-related development zone, making it eligible for enterprise zone tax incentives aimed at attracting high-paying jobs in the semiconductor ecosystem.
