FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Prime Location

Fort Wayne is the second largest city in the state and the center of economic activity in northeastern Indiana. In 2021, Allen County set records for new jobs and construction value and, according to the US Census Bureau, was the fastest-growing metro area in the Great Lakes region. With more than 611,000 residents (2019) in the metropolitan area, Fort Wayne's economy has diversified from its historic concentration in the automobile industry and found strength in transportation as well as other well-paying sectors, including aerospace, defense, medical and insurance companies. During 2021, in the midst of a pandemic, Allen County added 27 new business expansions or relocations and more than $105 million in new annual payroll.

Fort Wayne is an affordable alternative to other Midwestern cities, offering a high quality of life with cultural and educational institutions in the community. The city is home to notable national companies such as Amazon, General Motors, BAE Systems, Raytheon, Lincoln Financial Group and Vera Bradley.

Businesses in the northeastern Indiana region have a one-day drive to more than one-third of the U.S. population and one-fifth of the Canadian population. Our rail lines, which include CSX and Norfolk Southern, provide access to the nation. More than 100 trucking companies serve northeast Indiana businesses using two major interstates, 7 U.S. highways, and over 20 state roads that cross northeast Indiana. The Fort Wayne International Airport, which hosts an air strip so long that the space shuttle can safely land, provides scheduled flights to major midwestern and southern cities. Most cities and towns in northeastern Indiana are within 120 miles of either the Port of Indiana-Burns Harbor on Lake Michigan or the Port of Toledo on Lake Erie.
