Roanoke, Virginia

Business from across the globe have located in the Roanoke Region due to the many advantages the area offers. From the high quality of life to the low cost of living, Roanoke's central location, abundant recreation, and superior infrastructure attract advanced manufacturers and knowledge industries to the region. With one of the most diverse economies in Virginia, the area provides low costs and high productivity that meet the needs of industries from electronics to software and life sciences. Roanoke is the center for finance, healthcare, logistics, legal services, manufacturing, and culture for all of western Virginia. The diversified economy includes major operations in banking, insurance, advanced manufacturing, and automotive suppliers. Roanoke is the back-office headquarters for Advanced Auto Parts, a Fortune 500 company, as well as home to one of Virginia's largest healthcare systems, Carilion Clinic.

The largest metropolitan area in western Virginia, the Roanoke Region covers 1,700 square miles in the Blue Ridge and Allegheny Mountains. There are more than 330,000 people who call the region their home and more than 1,000,000 others who use it as their regional center for jobs, transportation, entertainment, and healthcare. Roanoke offers an ideal mix of urban, suburban, and rural lifestyles to help businesses attract and retain skilled and talented workers. Graduates of the region's 20+ colleges and universities are drawn to the area to enjoy the Appalachian Trail, Blue Ridge Parkway, and 600 miles of hiking and biking trails nearby. The region solidified its standing as a destination for trail riders, being designated as one of 39 certified ride centers in the world by the International Mountain Bike Association.
