Denver's Five Points neighborhood, famously dubbed the "Harlem of the West," carries a storied legacy as a hub of jazz and cultural richness. Its history continues to echo through the community, shaping its distinct character and appeal.

Today, Five Points blends historic charm with modern energy, evolving into a vibrant, eclectic urban hub. The neighborhood boasts newly built multifamily developments, an array of diverse retail spaces, trendy restaurants, and lively entertainment venues, making it a magnet for those seeking a dynamic city lifestyle.

Just minutes from Lower Downtown, Uptown, and major highways, Five Points offers unparalleled convenience alongside a deep connection to Denver's cultural roots. Recent investments, including the introduction of light rail by Denver's Regional Transportation District, have spurred significant growth and transformation in the area.

This rapid development has sparked conversation around preserving the neighborhood's unique culture and identity—an enduring reminder of its vital contribution to Denver's story.

With the recent opening of the Five Points Business District Office, there is renewed interest in the area along with renewed hope.

The Five Points Business District Office is responsible for growing and developing the Welton Street Corridor and promoting and empowering the broader Five Points community. Funded by Denver's Office of Economic Development, the office is part of the city's new Neighborhood Marketplace Initiative.

The goals of the Five Points Plan are to strengthen the Welton Corridor through:

- Creating a more accessible and relevant business district for nearby residents through attracting and supporting the right services, amenities, and retail to the corridor;
- Responding to the development, land use, and small business challenges currently facing the corridor;
- Developing strong relationships between corridor businesses and property owners, residents, and community leaders to strengthen and improve the Welton Corridor;
- Attracting new development and investment to the corridor;
- Branding and promoting the corridor as a tourist destination;
- Empowering and unifying the broader Five Points community.
