Welcome to Miramar: Vibrant, connected, and growing

Located in southern Broward County, Miramar is a thriving suburb within the Miami metropolitan area. Incorporated in 1955, its name – meaning “look at the sea” in Spanish – hints at its coastal proximity, while its history reflects thoughtful planning and steady growth.

Today, Miramar is home to more than 134,000 residents, making it the fourth largest city in Broward County.

The city boasts a diverse and vibrant community, including strong Caribbean and Latin American populations, and a dynamic economy anchored by major employers such as Spirit Airlines, JL Audio, and the FBI Miami field office. Miramar offers a wealth of amenities, from the Miramar Town Center and Ansin Sports Complex to Miramar Regional Park and a network of more than 35 parks, providing residents with abundant recreational and cultural opportunities.

Blending residential neighborhoods, commercial hubs, and green spaces, Miramar is both a convenient base for exploring South Florida and a self-contained city with its own distinctive character.

Its careful balance of growth, accessibility, and community amenities makes it a desirable destination for families, businesses, and visitors alike.
