METRAMARKET IN THE MEDIA

"Amid the bustle and baguettes, it's easy to forget that there used to be loads of vacant space underneath the Metra tracks at Ogilvie Transportation Center. Since opening in December '09 during the pit of the recession, the $35M MetraMarket has ballooned into a high-traffic restaurant and retail destination."

"Beneath the train terminal next to the Ogilvie Transportation Center, the Chicago French Market has in its three years become a quirky collective of food nerddom. ...you can spend a day here hopping from stall to stall, eating yourself silly. Which is what I did."

"Glamorous cross-country train travel might still exist only in movies, but Ovie Bar & Grill, on the ground floor of the Ogilvie Transportation Center, almost can make you feel you're about to catch the 20th Century Limited...The food here is of the same high caliber as the station's dazzling French Market."

"The 5 Best Food Halls in America –Vendors such as Saigon Sisters have made this market hall a dining destination."

"...this rail station marketplace offers 15,000 square feet of meats, cheeses, pastas, and other specialties, and anchors a retail space that serves commuters, area workers and residents alike."

"Saigon Sisters this year received attention from Bon Appetit magazine, was featured on the Food Network's 'Sandwich King,' and has also garnered high marks from Zagat and Open Table."

Best Gourmet Market—Chicago French Market

Best Transit Station Women's Room

"The Vibe: It has a grocery store, artisan cheese shop, and healthy prepared foods all under one roof."
