Phoenix has been among the country's fastest-growing cities for years, according to U.S. Census Bureau data — and it's expected to double in size by 2040, up from nearly 1.7 million people right now.

Phoenix is the capital and largest city of Arizona. It is home to 1,660,272 people according to the 2018 U.S. Census estimates. Phoenix is the 11th largest Metropolitan area by population in the United States with 4,857,962 residents. In addition, Phoenix is the county seat of Maricopa County, and is the sixth largest city in the United States by land area. The largest capital city in the United States, Phoenix is the only state capital with over 1,000,000 people. The evolution of Downtown Phoenix over the last 5 years has been significant with more than $4 Billion invested in office space, retail, restaurants, educational facilities, convention space, and hotels.

Phoenix is the vibrant center of one of the fastest growing job markets and economies in the United States. Phoenix is home to a large number of high-tech, IT, renewable energy and bioscience industries. The city's economic base also includes a viable financial and advanced business services enterprises as well as a robust health sciences sector. The Phoenix area has a talented labor pool with the median age of its population at 36.9 years old, younger than the national average, and 28.9 percent of the total population hold a bachelor's degree. Engaged, high-quality colleges and universities are fundamental to a strong and sustainable economy and Phoenix has over 179,102 current college students. All three Arizona public universities have a presence in Phoenix, nine private academic institutions offering undergraduate and graduate degrees are located in Phoenix, and there are 17 other academic institutions.

In a landscape famous for red rocks, blue skies and golden sunshine, Greater Phoenix takes great pride in being green. The Phoenix Convention Center is LEED certified, METRO Light Rail is virtually pollution free, and the City of Phoenix has created more than 80 sustainability programs in water, energy and natural-resource conservation.

Phoenix's beautiful desert landscape and vast-sky sunsets aren't the only reasons people love to live and visit Phoenix. Within the beautiful desert lies urban sophistication: Resorts and spas, stadiums and arenas worthy of the world's biggest sports spectacles, restaurants with inspired cuisine and views, golf courses that beckon players year round, and shopping centers with some of the best globally recognized brands. Inc. Magazine ranked Phoenix as the best city to start and grow a company and the city ranks as the fastest growing city among cities in the United States with populations greater than one million. According to USA Forbes Phoenix is one of the largest metro areas in the United States ranking 11th in the fastest job growth rate among the 100 metro areas. Also 11th in Americas Fastest growing cities.

- Home to Arizona State University
- Houses Several Performance Venues: Gammage Auditorium and the Tempe Center for the Arts
- Hosts the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl Block Party, one of the Nation's Largest New Year's Eve Parties
- Metro Light Rail Stops in Area provide Easy Connection to Phoenix Sky Harbor International Airport and Downtown Phoenix

Tempe is among Arizona's most educated cities. With more than a dozen colleges, trade schools and universities, about 40 percent of residents over the age of 25 have Bachelor's degrees or better. This lends itself to a creative, smart atmosphere where anything seems possible. People and businesses in Tempe have worked on projects including the Mars Rover, implanted heart defibrillators, solar energy and much more.

With Tempe being located in the center of the Greater Phoenix Metropolitan Area, it's an easy commute to all parts of the metro especially with its great transportation system and light-rail. Tempe is just 10 minutes from Sky Harbor International Airport and not much further from downtown Phoenix. Location is just one reason that Tempe is a workforce importer, with approximately 150,000 people employed in a city of just 161,000 residents.

Tempe is home to many outdoor activities. Tempe Town Lake is a publicly accessible lake that is run by City of Tempe. The lake provides recreation activities to residents and tourists, but also helps protect the surrounding area from flooding. The City of Tempe estimated that 2.7 million people visited the lake in 2013. Papago and South Mountain Parks offer hiking, mountain and road biking, rock climbing, frisbee golf, and equestrian activities. Tempe is also home to the annual Ironman Triathlon, which takes place in late November.

Many of the reasons people visit Tempe are events like P.F. Chang's Rock 'n' Roll Arizona Marathon & 1/2 Marathon, Tempe Marketplace, Arizona Mills, Mill Avenue, and Tempe Town Lake. Downtown Tempe offers more than 175 restaurants, nightclubs and retail shops to cater to city guests. Mill Ave is a famous Arizona bar district here containing several bars and restaurants that cater to the growing university crowd. Along with bars and restaurants are business complexes and university buildings. Several long time bar establishments include Mill Ave Cue Club, Rula Bula Irish Pub, Tavern Bar & Eatery, among others.

PHOENIX — Maricopa County added more jobs than any county in the nation from December 2018 to December 2019, according to new data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics Local Area Unemployment Statistics (LAUS) program — which tracks county labor force data. Maricopa County, the fourth-largest county in the nation, gained 89,328 jobs in that time period.

“Businesses and jobs continue to flock to Arizona for our light regulation, low tax environment and unbeatable quality of life,” said Governor Ducey. “This growth benefits communities across our state, and we will continue to focus on expanding opportunities for all of Arizona. My thanks to all the small business owners, entrepreneurs and innovators helping to make our state the best state for jobs in the nation.”
